SUMMARY.

Germany, it is reported, will accept President Wilson's terms on condition that the interests of German people are guaranteed.

The odds at Lloyd's are 6 to 4 against peace by the end of the year.

Germany's unconditional surrender and the abdication of the Emperor were rumoured, but the reports lack official confirmation.

The Press Bureau announces that the reports that Germany had capitulated are without foundation.

President Wilson's reply resulted in a panic on the Berlin Stock Exchange.

The Supreme Command will meet to deliberate on the mobilisation of Germany's national strength.

Reports received from Holland state that it is believed Germany has offered to give up submarine warfare.

Allied forces under the King of the Belgians continued to attack the Germans.

The French and Belgians are advancing along the whole front of the attack.

The combined attack already threatens the Germans in the coastal region between Nieuport and Ostend.

The British have captured Haussy, in the Selle Valley, taking 300 prisoners.

The enemy continues his withdrawal on the Douai-Lille front. The British are closely following.

There was some fighting between the enemy rearguards and British advanced detachments. The British took prisoners.

The Second British Army, under General Plumer, co-operating with the French, has advanced eight miles in three days.

During this period, despite strong opposition, this army has captured Comines, Menin, Wevilghem, Heule, and Cuerney.

The troops also secured the northern portion of Courtrai.

Mr. Philip Gibbs telegraphs that the Anglo-Franco-Belgian attack has gained important successes along the whole line.

The Allies have reached Sante, south-west of Lille. The immediate capture of Lille is not anticipated.

The Belgian cavalry are within a mile of Thielt.

A German official report states: The enemy penetrated beyond the Iseghem-Courtrai railway line. We withdrew west of Lille.

German prisoners taken at Roulers seemed well informed about recent events, their constant refrain being "We want peace."

Prisoners are continually asking if an armistice is signed yet. They agree that the German Emperor must go.

The Americans west of the Meuse are slowly cutting through the Kreimhilde line, north of Verdun.

They have driven deeper into the line, and have captured St. Juvin, east of Grand Pre. They advanced beyond the second enemy lines.

Major-General Maurice writes that the military situation is extraordinarily favourable for the Allies.

He, however, does not see any immediate likelihood of another and greater Sedan.

There is no sign, he remarks, that the German fighting spirit is broken, though it has sensibly weakened.

Meanwhile Marshal Foch's power of attacking everywhere is increasing daily.

The Germans are about to send German ships from Antwerp to Holland for internment.

There are further signs of the evacuation of the Ostend region. A hundred thousand fugitives are leaving Antwerp for Holland.

The Allies are continuing their advance towards Northern Servia.

The Servians have captured Velike and Yestrebac massif, and have reached 20 kilometres northward of Nish.

In Albania the Austrians are retiring upon Ipek.

Owing to Young Turk intrigues and German menaces Tewfik Pasha and Izzet Pasha have failed to form a Cabinet.

A miniature fleet of old Russian warships and merchantmen, manned by Germans, is lying outside Constantinople.

The commander has semi-officially informed the Sultan that the fleet will bombard the capital if a separate peace is attempted.

It is believed that Germany has persuaded Turkey not to send a peace proposal direct to the Allies.

Armoured car batteries entered Baalbek, east of Beyrout, on October 9, and ascertained that 500 Turks had surrendered.

The British advanced cavalry and armoured cars have occupied Tripoli and Homs without opposition.

Mr. Watt stated in the House of Representatives that much of the existing taxation would probably continue after the war.

The bill relating to the establishment of the Institute of Science and Industry met with considerable opposition in the Senate.

The Anzacs returning on furlough were yesterday welcomed by cheering crowds. Four V.C.s occupied the place of honour.

The Lord Mayor extended a hearty welcome to the soldiers at the citizens' reception in the Town Hall.

"Thanks to the Anzacs, the hearths and homes of Australia had been made safe," said the Chief Secretary.

In the Assembly last night the Sedition Bill was passed and sent on to the Council.

The bill re-enacting the income super-tax of 3d in the £ was passed through committee.

A mass meeting of tramway employees yesterday discussed alleged breaches of awards and insufficient wages.

A tribunal to inquire into the working of the tramways and the cause of unrest in the service was demanded.

The Shop Assistants' Union has decided not to have anything to do with the A.L.P. recruiting ballot.

The president of the Hospital Employees' Union, referring yesterday to the ballot, said Australia was now in the war to the finish.

The W.C.T.U. Convention condemned the art union to be held by the police and firemen in aid of Jack's Day.

It was declared that "the whole thing was going to give a tremendous impetus to the gambling spirit of the State."

The Inspector-General states that the efforts of the police and firemen have nothing to do officially with the department.

The funeral of the late Bishop Stone-Wigg, at Enfield, was attended by a large gathering of the Anglican clergy.

Several bushfires were reported around Sydney yesterday, the fire brigades being called out in each case to beat out the flames.

Two acres of bush in Oswald-street, Neutral Bay, caught alight in the morning, and two fires occurred at Mosman.

Two fires also broke out at Sandringham, one at Punchbowl, and one at Chatswood.

Sultry conditions prevailed in Sydney and the country districts yesterday. The maximum temperature was 90.1.

Late in the afternoon the wind changed to the south, and at 6.10 p.m. the wind reached a velocity of 40 miles an hour.

This caused the temperature to fall rapidly, and at 9 p.m. the reading was 61.6.

The work of the directorate of educational propaganda on war and peace issues was explained at a meeting in the Royal Exchange.

The market for sheep at Homebush showed a fall of from 1/ to 1/6 per head, and in places 2/, in values.

There was also a drop in the value of cattle, the market showing a decline of from 20/ to 40/ per head.

A stronger market was in evidence for investment scrip on the Stock Exchange yesterday, and an all-round advance took place.

A further slump took place in the prices of the principal silver-lead and tin stocks.

After remaining at the same level for many days, the price of eggs advanced.

There was a brisk inquiry for forage and grain at full rates.

Forecast.—Cooler generally, with south-west to south-east winds; squally on the coast, with disturbed seas. Some scattered showers and thunder over the southern districts and on the coast.

PIANO CAMOUFLAGE.
PIANO CAMOUFLAGE.
PIANO CAMOUFLAGE.
Camouflage, a French word in general use since the war, is generally known to mean "an actor's disguise or make up." The term can be aptly applied to many Pianos that are not what they seem; those large over-decorated pieces of furniture which often consist of small tone pianos in large cases, which ought to have passed away with the antimacassar and case of wax fruit in the seldom-used drawing-room.
THE STECK PIANO Illustrated Catalogue will show you instruments built on honest, artistic lines, suitable for the modern home. No camouflage case, but a genuine piano of beautiful tone, quality, and appearance.

PEAPES' ECONOMIC TAILORING.
LIGHT WEAVES FOR SUMMER.
Increasing temperatures now remind us that it is near time to discard heavy woollens.
Peapes' introduce a good range of Light Textured Materials appropriate for Summer wear. Prominent in this selection are the "Warrigal" Australian woollens, which, in weave, pattern, and finish compare most favourably with imported goods. Experience has proved that Australian Tweeds are eminently satisfactory; and men who decide to give their practical support to home industry will not be out of pocket because of their decision.
Economic Tailoring is made under a system that eliminates some of the more tedious detail work. Cost is thus lessened considerably without decreasing the wearing quality or appearance of the suit.
£4/15/ TO £6/6/.
Patterns and simple Self-measurement form will be sent on request.

BUY YOUR SKIRT AT WHOLESALE PRICE.

Once you see the quality of the material—the smart tailor-cut and the splendid finish of Arlington Skirts—you will never buy any other. This is quite apart from the fact that you are buying at wholesale price. We undertake to save you 10/6 to 21/ on your skirt.

A visit to our Showrooms will convince you that we give style, quality, and value absolutely unobtainable elsewhere, our materials being sold to you at wholesale price and the garments produced by the highest paid artist-designers and cutters in Australia.

When you buy an Arlington Skirt you actually pay wholesale price for the material and a nominal charge for the making.

We do not now deal with the trade. At one time we sold the whole of our materials to drapers, etc. We now deal direct with the public, selling at the same prices at which we formerly sold to the trade.

THE QUALITY OF

"OSMAN"

SHEETS & PILLOW CASES.

The test of a Sheet is, of course, the wash-tub, but it is not always practicable when buying Sheets or Sheeting to take home a sample and wash it, and it is not necessary if, when buying, you always insist on having "Osman" Sheets and Pillow Cases with the small "Osman" label on the corner of each article.

The "OSMAN" label is a pledge of quality, a surety of longest wear and biggest money value in Sheets and Pillow Cases. Look for it.

AT NOCK AND KIRBY'S NOTED LOW PRICES.

A SCREEN FOR A DOORWAY OR A FIREPLACE.

A DAINTY JAPANESE FIRE SCREEN, to exclude the grate, or open fireplace, as the case may be, from the public eye. Instead of gazing at a dull, uninteresting bit of blackened iron, your eye will then be quite charmed with a delightful specimen of Japanese art, executed on a transparent ground, mounted on a light, strong, lacquered wood frame, in keeping with the picture. PRICES, range from 1/11, 2/11, and 3/6, upwards.

REED and BEAD BLINDS, for doorways and archways provide a moderately-priced and decidedly-attractive means of taking off the bareness of an opening, and at the same time rendering the room, etc., somewhat less public to the passers-by. These Reed and Bead Blinds are neat, light, clean, and convenient—and let us add pleasing also in appearance, by reason of floral or landscape embellishments. PRICES, 8/11, 10/6, 12/9, upwards.

MATS IN CORK OR WOOD FOR YOUR BATHROOM.

A personal comfort investment you never will regret is a BATH MAT. Indeed, the bathroom, which does not own one is lacking in true comfort, and who would suffer discomfort when the cost of comfort is so small. Give particular consideration to the COMPRESSED CORK BATH MATS. No danger of slipping on them, and they are very comforting things to stand on—because, although so strong and solid, they yield just enough to one's weight to make you realise they're "different." PRICES—

CORK BATH MATS—
12in x 18in 2/3
18in x 24in 4/6
18in x 36in 8/3

WOOD BATH MATS, square lattice pattern:
24in x 16in 3/6
27in x 16in 3/11
30in x 16in 4/6

THIS SECTION TOUCHES UPON STEPLADDER, CLOTHES HORSE, PASTE BOARD.

TAKE PASTE BOARDS FIRST.—Quite a modest piece of kitchen furniture, but where's the woman who would care to be deprived of it? Prices follow of two kinds:
20 x 14in, Plain, 2/11.
20 x 18in, with sides, 3/6.

THE CLOTHES HORSE is another very useful piece of household furniture. Many women, of course, get along without one—but the housewives who use them and realise their convenience, certainly would never like to be without them. PRICES:
TWO-FOLD PATTERN 7/11
THREE-FOLD PATTERN 10/6

A STEP LADDER should have a place in every home. For window cleaning, picture cleaning, curtain hanging, fruit picking, and domestic "up-in-the-air" activities generally a STEP LADDER is unquestionably very handy—and remember this. One fall off a box or a chair may cost you ten times the price of a STEP LADDER. PRICES:

PINE STEP LADDERS, light and strong, with wide steps:
5ft 8/3
6ft 9/11

SUPERIOR OREGON STEP LADDERS, with extra wide base, which makes them "safer than the safe."

FASHION AS SHE IS.

SEASONABLE "TUB" FROCKS.

Never before have such demands been made for "tub" frocks. They will be in urgent request immediately the very hot weather sets in, and in this connection nothing is more opportune than the charming display seen in some of the principal shop windows, showing a variety of light and dark coloured washing frocks. Among the principal materials are voiles, muslins, cotton crepes, ginghams, and zephyrs. They are obtainable in a host of beautiful colours and designs. Checked material, striped, square designs in very effective schemes. Spotted washing materials are also noticed. Block stripes in various widths, from a tiny line to a three or four inch stripe in contrasting colours. Dark designs on a white background, or lightly toned designs on darker background. There is also a collection of cotton gabardine, in check or striped effect, and of pique or sponge cloth, all proving welcome where our summer tub frocks are in question. Pin-spot muslin is quite an old friend; it comes in some instances as a new guise, and one's choice may fall on a material in which colour accent is supplied by groups of spots arranged in squares. The line check or block check is still playing a foremost part in the world of washing materials. Then, again, there are the dainty voiles printed with two-colour designs. All these are favoured for summer wear, having become nothing short of a craze this season. Soft Fuji silk must not be omitted among our lightweight frocks. It is to be seen in a range of colours that include pale green, a most becoming shade, mole, nattier blue, and light saxe.

The pleated or panel skirt may be chosen with an assurance of success. The panel design demonstrates the newest lines, heavy silk embroidery may be employed to add to the attraction of the same. The pleated effect, however, is chosen by many women. One particularly lightweight frock was fashioned in a very becoming green of a peculiar and attractive shade. In this instance the skirt was neatly pleated, showing the straight line. The blouse bodice was raised out of the ordinary by a high collar of the same, a black satin ribbon showing under the tabs on the close-fitting collar. An uncommon bronze-coloured hat of a simple design helped to finish this charming toilette. One of the latest ideas for a summer tub frock is the new pinafore style. It is essentially smart, and extremely inexpensive, and at the same time becoming to their wearers. It is seen in cotton voile, cotton crepes, and zephyrs. There is quite a diversity of designs in both light and dark toned summer fabrics carried out in this pinafore scheme. One of the most popular of all the models, and very smart in appearance was a black and white striped voile of rather bold design. The skirt shows a graceful straight line, and the bodice boasts a new idea in a high-pointed corsage band and broad brace like shoulder straps. This is mounted over a dainty under-bodice and sleeves of pure white voile, and an added effect is given by the light blanket stitch embroidery. Such a costume could easily be carried out in a wide range of both narrow or broad striped voiles. Another scheme I noticed in an extremely chic little black and white shepherd's plaid voile. It was simply trimmed with a white collar and a cherry-coloured velvet waist-band and a long-ended tab bow of the same bright coloured velvet ribbon finished off the neck. It looked exceedingly "Frenchy" and most dainty in effect. Smoke-blue ribbon in place of the cherry tone would look equally well, or even a jade shade. Young girls and women of slight figures will all agree that these little pinafore tub frocks are most useful and becoming. They may be designed to wear over any kind of a blouse. The coloured crepon models, showing the skirt allied to a silk embroidered belt of fancy design, and finished with the bracelike straps in lieu of sleeves, are noticed in some beautiful tones of pale pink, mauve, saxe blue. One of the points with these little dresses is their usefulness. Worn over a detachable blouse they do not need constant laundering, just because the sleeves and cuffs have become crushed and soiled, as many a wearer finds is the case when doing some kind of clerical work.

GIFT SALE FOR JACK'S DAY.

The gift sale for Jack's Day promises to be a great success, and already the showrooms at Canberra House, Elizabeth-street, resemble the Old Curiosity Shop of historical fame. The antique ornaments, tapestries, and silverware fire the imagination to scenes in other climes, and fancy seems to linger on many of the circumstances surrounding the original purchase of the various articles. A Crown Derby dinner service is among the choicest gifts in chinaware, and a rosewood couch, upholstered in old rose brocade, an antique card table, ivory Chinese pagoda, Empire mirrors, pictures, ivories, bronzes, Sheffield plate, brasses, and countless other things are among the treasures that will be for sale. There are also gifts of lesser value commercially, but perhaps in many cases they have had a sentimental value to the donors, and it is the self-sacrificing spirit prompting such donations that infuses enthusiasm into every person that views the collection. The apparent care that has been bestowed on many of the articles makes one realise that to someone they have represented a treasured link with the past, but the severance of that link has been made for the best of causes—the men of the British navy. The sale, which begins on the 21st inst., will be continued for several days.

FROM NEAR AND FAR.

An informal welcome to Corporal Kenny, V.C., 2nd Battalion, is to be given next week at the depot, 379 Kent-street, by the committee of the 2nd and 54th Battalion Comforts Fund, and returned officers and men. The committee will conduct a stall on Jack's Day in Martin-place, No. 130, H.M.S. Orion, fourth stall from Pitt-street, on P.O. side. Gifts of cakes, sweets, jams, etc., will be gratefully received at the depot. The shop at No. 11 Pitt-street will be closed that day, November 1, also on November 2. The date of the annual reunion has been fixed for Thursday, December 12.

Lady Davidson has kindly consented to be present at a grand concert and entertainment to be held at the King's Hall, Hunter-street, on Monday evening, October 21, in aid of the G.F.S. Hostel. Mrs. Alexander Gordon will sing songs, also Miss Dorrie Ward, Mr. Dudley Helmrich, Miss Dumolo, and Miss Dagmar Thomson will give violin selections. The second part of the programme will be "The Empire's Honour," by 17 branches of the G.F.S., scene 1, 1914; scene 2, 1916-1918. Mrs. Stiles is stage manager, and the tickets can be obtained at Paling's. One interesting item will be the group of war healers, who receive the thanks of Britannia's Allies. The part of chaplain will be realistically filled by the Rev. Stacey Waddy, recently returned from the front; and the doctor and nurse will be two who have also seen active service.

The 20th Battalion Comforts Fund's stall on Jack's Day will be No. 117, H.M.S. Conqueror, in Martin-place, almost in front of Challis House. A special feature of this stall will be aprons—housemaids', nurses', and coloured—and cakes, flowers, fancy articles, etc., will also be for sale. Gifts for the stall of any variety either in money or kind will be gratefully received by the committee at their new rooms, 207 George-street (open Tuesdays and Fridays, 10.30 a.m. to 5 p.m.).

The results of the Homes Day purple packets were drawn on October 16 at the Voluntary Workers' Rooms by Mr. Alan Uther, chairman of the Citizens' War Chest. The winning numbers appear in the Public Notice column of this paper, issue of October 18.

CHAPTER XXIV.—Continued.

He let us get a few yards and then called me back.

"It's no concern of mine, but that's a delicate youngster of yours; anyone would more likely take him for a wench than a lad, when he's off guard. Anyhow, come and see me at Lingen;" and without waiting for my reply, he walked off.

"What did he want " asked Nessa.

"Spotted you for a girl."

"Jack! He couldn't!" she protested indignantly.

"He did," and I used the fact as a text to urge the change I had in my thoughts. She did kick at it, as was to be expected, but a little later we had a powerful practical proof of its necessity.

We turned into the first inn we came to for some breakfast, and I was talking to the woman of the house, a very kindly-looking motherly person, about it when there was a commotion outside. I ran out to find Nessa being rough-handled by a man who was trying to snatch her cap off. A word or two stopped any mischief, but it also drew the woman's attention very pointedly to Nessa.

"You can have your breakfast in my room, if you like," she said, and, when I thanked her, led the way to it, and closed the door and stood with her back to it. "You've taken your cap off, can't the lad do the same?" she asked very meaningly.

"Got a sore place on it, mum; 'fraid of a chill," said Nessa.

"I'm good at curing places of that sort; let me have a look at it."

"No, thank you, all the same, I don't take kindly to coddling," replied Nessa, colouring.

The woman smiled. "You do it very well, my girl, but I'm a woman myself and know my own sex," she replied drily. Then to me: "You're an honest man, I'll wager, by your looks. Hadn't you better tell me what it means?"

"She's my wife," I said. "She's English, and——"

"Glory be to God!" she interposed excitedly, in English, with a strong brogue. "If I didn't guess it the instant I clapped eyes on the both of ye!" and the tears welled in her eyes as she rushed to Nessa, took off the cap, and kissed her. "Ah, ye poor Mavourneen, ye! And, saints alive, look at the lovely hair it is. And to think ye're from England, only I wish it was dear old Oireland, that I do! Whisht now, or Oi'll be making an ould fool of myself. We'd best just shpake in German. That I should live to see the day! And out in this divil of a hole of a place! It's making for the frontier ye are, of course! And it's glad that I am I can help ye, so I can. And it's breakfast ye want, is it? Sure I'll see to it; but I must dry my eyes first and get sober."

She kissed Nessa again and almost kissed me also in her joy, wiped her eyes, looked in the glass to see that all was right, and bustled out to see about the breakfast.

"Something like a stroke of luck, this," I said; but Nessa was too cast down at her failure in the part to answer, so I looked out of the window to give her time to get over it.

She rose presently, and I felt her hand on my shoulder.

"I'm a failure, Jack," she said wistfully, struggling to smile at it.

"And thank heaven for it, sweetheart."

"But even that brute of a farmer found me out. I wouldn't care so much if it had only been this good soul."

"She spotted me as English, too," I reminded her.

"I know. You're trying to make it easier for me; but that man didn't spot you, the beast!" She smiled then at her own vehemence. "Well, it's good-bye, Hans, I suppose," she said with a sigh.

"And good riddance, too."

"And yet you said I was doing it so well."

"And so you were, child, for the stage, but this is different."

"It's taken all the fun out of the picnic for me."

"What? To be my wife?"

She laughed and shook her head. "Well, there's one thing, you won't be the boss any longer."

"We'll see about that, young 'un."

"Don't, Jack. Don't ever dare to refer to this again or I'll—I'll—I don't know what I'll do!" she cried with a stamp of the foot. Then she caught sight of Hans cap. "It's that horrid thing that's the cause of it all;" and she picked it up and flung it from her.

That was the overt act of renunciation of the part; and as she turned to me I put my arm round her and kissed her.

"I thought there was to be no more 'anything else,'" she laughed.

"Mustn't a man kiss his own wife?" I cried.

"That hopes to be, Jack," she whispered. And that was Hans' funeral ceremony.

CHAPTER XXV.
A FRIEND IN NEED.

When the woman returned to us she had quite thrown off her first emotional outburst at our meeting, and her first words were a warning not to speak another word of English.

"I couldn't help it at first, I was so excited; but it would ruin me if it was known that I'm British," she declared, and over the breakfast she told us her story.

She was from Cork, where she had married a German baker named Fischer, had come to England a few years later, had been a widow for five years, and had continued to carry on the business of the inn. She was very curious to learn the truth about the war, and when I had satisfied her we settled down to the consideration of her own affairs.

We returned confidence for confidence: that Nessa and I were engaged to be married; how I had come from England to find her; the plight she had been in owing to von Erstein's persecution; that we had been in the train smash, and had escaped with our lives, but had lost the passports.

She knew the von Erstein type of German well enough to sympathise deeply with Nessa, and listened in tears to that part of the story.

"I can help you both, and I will; but you'll have to be as cautious as a pair of wild birds. They're just grabbing the men into the army with both hands, for one thing, and they'll take you at sight, and then what would she do, poor thing?"

"But aren't a lot of mechanics exempted."

"Do you know anything about such things really?"

"Most there is to know about motors and aeroplanes."

"Oh, that's better," she cried, rubbing her hands.

"They're making that sort of thing now at a place called Ellendorf, out Lingen way; and they're wanting men badly. You can say you've heard of it and are on your road there, and it may help you through. But understand that all strangers about here are suspected and the police are mighty curious; and it's worse the closer to the frontier you get. Have you thought how you're to get across?"

"If we're as lucky there as we have been here, it mayn't be so difficult. My rough idea was to join up with some folk who are smuggling things over and look for a chance to slip across."

"I'd thought of that, too, and I can help you," she said, and then explained her plan.

She declared that nearly every one near the frontier was taking a hand in the smuggling game, and that the authorities, both police and military, not only winked at it, but secretly encouraged it. Lately, however, owing to the more drastic rounding up of men for the army, there had been a good deal of the slipping over which we wished to do, and stringent measures were being taken in consequence.

"That makes it more difficult," she continued; "but my late husband's brother, Adolf Fischer, lives there. I'll give you a note to him, and he'll help you."

"Is he one of them?" I asked.

She smiled and nodded. "He's getting rich at it, and has several people working with him. I'll have to lie for you; but I don't mind. I'll tell him I know all about you, and that you want to join him; but don't say a word about skipping over, or he'll put the police on you. He's very thick with them, but that needn't scare you. They won't touch one of his men."

"We're awfully obliged to you."

"I only wish I could do more. Of course, I'll find some clothes for you," she said to Nessa. "They'll only be rough, working things; but then nothing else would do; and if you'll both be guided by me, you won't think of risking the walk to Lingen. What you'd better do is to stop here and rest till to-morrow morning, get away early, and foot it to Massen; it's only a matter of four or five miles; and catch the train there. And it would be all the better if you were to wear overalls. I can get you some."

"I have some already," I put in.

"All the better, but whatever you do, don't carry that grip with you. Might as well write who you are on your back. Much better carry a tool or so in your hand as if you were off to a job in a hurry; and she might have a small market basket. She'll be your wife till ye reach Lingen; and don't forget that most Germans treat their wives pretty gruffly. There are plenty of spies about with sharp eyes for trifles of the sort. They might even see that you don't eat like them. I should have known you by it," she declared.

We both laughed as we thanked her again; and soon afterwards she took Nessa away to see about the change of dress.

We had fallen on our feet in all truth. Her help was literally invaluable. Every one of her suggestions was practical and opened my eyes to the many little difficult details and pitfalls which had never occurred to us when planning our escape.

HOW TO COMBAT INFLUENZA

The Epidemic of Spanish Influenza, which is now sweeping over Australia, can only be combated by the use of

(1) A Reliable Germicide to counteract the bacilli.
(2) An Effective Expectorant to loosen phlegm and relieve the distressing cough.
(3) A preparation to soothe and heal inflamed mucous membrane; and
(4) A good tonic to enable the system to counteract the Enervating Effects of the disease.

These requirements are adequately provided in two well-known home remedies, viz.:—

HEENZO

Registered Name for HEAN'S ESSENCE

The Famous Money-Saving Remedy for COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, CATARRH, and other Chest and Throat Troubles, and

HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS

The Proven Builders of Healthy Nerve Tissue.

HEENZO has the added advantage of being most economical, inasmuch as from a small bottle, costing only two shillings, a family supply of mixture may be made in a few moments by simply adding the concentrated Heenzo to warm water, sweetened as per easy directions printed on the label, thus getting as much cough and influenza mixture for a couple of shillings as would cost anything from 12/- to £1 if purchased, ready-made, in a lot of little bottles.

The experience of thousands of users has proved that money cannot buy a better remedy than HEENZO.

HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS are also an economical medicine. Boxes costing only three shillings contain 12 days' treatment, or six boxes are supplied for 17/3. Small boxes, containing six days' treatment, cost 2/-.

Wise people will get a supply of these invaluable Remedies, and have them on hand for the prompt combating of the Influenza Epidemic when it invades their homes, as it is almost bound to do.

A few doses of HEENZO, taken when the first symptoms, such as headache, watering of the eyes, and itchiness in the ears and throat, are felt, will usually check the progress of the disease.

If you do not require a family supply of cough and influenza mixture, ask for HEENZO COUGH DIAMONDS. They are lozenges medicated with Heenzo, and are packed in neat tins which fit conveniently into vest pocket or handbag. The price is 1/- per tin.

If any difficulty is experienced in obtaining HEENZO, HEENZO COUGH DIAMONDS, or HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS in your locality, you may get them by post direct from

G. W. HEAN, Manufacturing Chemist,
178 CASTLEREAGH STREET, SYDNEY.

DR. SHELDON'S Digestive Tabules

1/6 and 2/6

Make Your Stomach Strong and Healthy

INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA

In the case of Indigestion and Dyspepsia the action of Dr. Sheldon's Digestive Tabules is natural, because they supply to the weak stomach that which is deficient in every case of indigestion, namely, the natural digestants, and they also tone up the action of the mucous coats so necessary to complete the assimilation of food. In recovering from severe sickness and general weakness and debility, these Tabules are valuable, because they immediately strengthen the stomach and help to restore healthy appetite by ensuring perfect digestion of the food.

Dr. Sheldon's Digestive Tabules are sold in sealed tins at 1/6 per tin of 36 Tabules, twenty-two (22) Digestive Tabules and fourteen (14) Gastric Tabules, or in larger tins at 2/6, containing 80 Tabules, fifty (50) Digestive Tabules and thirty (30) Gastric Tabules.

DIGEST What You Eat

Dr. Sheldon's Digestive Tabules are a reliable remedy for Stomach Troubles. The reason is they are a natural remedy that is particularly designed for stomach troubles, and help to perform the digestive work of the stomach, for they are composed of a combination of digestants which aid the other digestive fluids of the stomach to do their work in a natural way without causing any disturbance. They thus help the stomach to rest and recuperate, get strong and well.

The stomach is the organ on which the whole human system must depend for subsistence and existence. When the stomach fails, then what is to become of the body? Where does the force of life come from? You know that if you stop eating you will die, but the mere eating of food does not give life. Food can no more give life without digestion than coal can give heat without combustion. It is not what we eat but what we digest that keeps up the motor force of the body. Undigested food is not only useless, but harmful. It ferments and decays in the stomach, the evidence of which you have in the distress you experience, that feeling of fulness, especially after eating, flatulence, wind on the stomach, belching, and vomiting. These symptoms are simply nature's warning to you that something is wrong, and that you should do something. This decayed food poisons the blood, through which the entire system becomes impure and diseased. When the blood is bad it is apt to cause disease of the kidneys, of the liver, the heart, the lungs, or any and all organs which it is intended to nourish. Properly-digested food makes pure, healthy blood, which, in turn, makes a healthy person, by making every organ of the body healthy.

Dr. Sheldon's Digestive Tabules give the stomach perfect rest, because they contain digestants as found in a healthy stomach. They actually digest the food which is eaten, and prepare it to be taken up by the blood. This is a common-sense method of treating stomach troubles.

ON THE LAND.

TIMBER INDUSTRY.

QUESTION OF ROYALTIES.

That a considerable section of those connected with the timber industry are dissatisfied with the existing forestry regulations was evidenced by a deputation which waited upon the Minister for Lands and Forestry (Mr. Ashford) yesterday morning. It mainly represented the country sawmillers and timber hewers, and numbered about 20 gentlemen. Mr. G. Briner, M.L.A., introduced the deputation, and was supported by an array of Parliamentarians, including Messrs. D. Bennett, M. F. Morton, H. D. Morton, W. A. Zuill, W. Milliard, R. B. Walker, H. W. Lane, W. Cameron, G. Nesbitt, W. Kearsley, J. Fallick, C. E. Nicolson, Ms.L.A., and W. T. Dick, M.L.C. The Assistant Commissioner of Forests, Mr. Jolly, and Mr. Pope, chief inspector, were present.

The case for the deputation was put forward by a number of speakers, including Messrs. Briner, Burrows (Country Sawmillers' Association), Myles, Walker, Bodkin, Bennett, Cork (Sydney and Suburban Timber Traders' Association), Milliard, James, and Fanning. It was complained that there was a lack of harmony between the commission and those engaged in the industry, and strong objection was taken to the new system of imposing different royalties on the same timber in different localities. This, it was contended, created great uncertainty in the trade, and hampered operations, as the millers never knew what the raw material was going to cost them, and could not quote confidently for contracts. The uncertainty was increased by the fact that new regulations were issued and conditions changed from month to month. Great objection was taken to the power to impose varying royalties being left entirely to the local forest guard—(Mr. Ashford pointed out that this was not the case, as the matter was left to the district forest officer)—and when Mr. Bennett pointed out how this would lend itself to great abuse there was general applause. Complaint was also made against the practice of increasing the royalty rate according to the value of the timber, and a demand was made for a general royalty rate to apply all round, and to be fixed for a definite period of not less than 12 months. Several speakers maintained that deputations which waited upon the Minister last year had understood distinctly that there was to be no alteration in the rates for the duration of the war, and that this understanding had been disregarded. A further grievance was that different royalties—varying from 12/6 per 1000 feet to £4/3/4 per 1000 feet—were charged on the same timber in the same locality, because in the one case it was going into a mill and in the other was being hewn into a girder. Mr. Jolly (Assistant Commissioner) maintained that this was a sound principle. A further contention was that the differential royalty rates affected the building trade adversely, and were a factor in causing the scarcity of housing accommodation.

Mr. Ashford, in reply, said that Parliament had placed the Forestry Department under a commission, which had decided that the old conditions of royalties should be departed from. The commission was attempting to make forestry a business worth having, and to work the forests under a system for the benefit of the future as well as to-day. They did not want to come into conflict with the trade or those in the industry. Both the commission and the trade were essential, and the small mill-owners were a necessity. The differential royalty rates complained of as creating uncertainty in the trade were a very limited factor compared with the general circumstances that surrounded the timber industry. He quoted the following average sale prices per 100 super feet of sawn timber for the years 1913-1918, as per timber merchants' lists:—

Year		Hardwood.		Tallow-wood (Special).		Ironbark (Special).		Spotted Gum (Special).		Pine.		Cedar (Special).		Beech.
		s.	d.	s.	d.	s.	d.	s.	d.	s.	d.	s.	d.	s.	d.
Aug.-Oct.,	1913	22	11	27	11	32	0	26	0	24	0	75	0	35	0
"	1914	23	8	28	8	32	0	26	0	26	0	82	6	35	0
"	1915	23	6	28	6	32	0	26	0	26	0	82	6	35	0
"	1916	24	0	29	0	Not quoted		26	0	29	9	87	6	40	0
"	1917	26	0	31	0	Not quoted		30	0	31	0	87	6	40	0
Jan.-Oct.,	1918	29	0	34	0	37	6	34	0	38	9	100	0	42	3

Mr. Ashford asked could they say the rise in royalty of 2/6—which was the utmost, and only applied in few cases—had contributed to the conditions complained of as much as the 11/6 in the case of hoop pine. The 2/6 increase in royalty was the maximum increase in specially favourable conditions. Nothing could be more misleading than to imagine there could be a uniform royalty charged for everything. If there was such a thing as a general rate of, say, one shilling, contracts could not be made until the miller ascertained local conditions. To visit the district officer, and ascertain the differential rates, meant no more delay. Licenses were generally for a month, but the Commission was prepared to enter into a definite arrangement for 12 months for payment of royalties. They knew exactly what the timber was going to cost them for a month, and there was a general uniformity of rates. The Commissioners would welcome a fixed price for logs, but without that the State was entitled to benefit by the increase in value of timber. The interests of the State were as great as any in the trade. The charges were on a commercial basis, and 50 per cent of the receipts went back into the forests. Every country outside Australia that went in for forestry had adopted the system adopted by the Commission—that timber in certain places was worth a certain value, and in other places another value. If a State has a specially valuable timber it had a right to obtain a proportion of that value accordingly. With different haulage rates a uniform general rate would not be fair, either to the trade or the State. If they had unlimited forests a general rate might be justified, but it could not be done at the present rate of cutting. Hoop pine had to be regulated to ensure a future supply. Even the limit to hardwoods was in sight, and they would have to meet the situation either by curtailing cutting or by conservation to ensure a supply. He knew timber was rotting in some places, but that was the fault of the Government, not of the Forestry Commission. If the latter was able to make enough money it would build light railways to get such timber out. The Commission did not want to go further into the saw-milling industry, but the operations of the two small mills it had provided useful knowledge. The Commission was going in for the conversion of forests which had been already exploited, and had shown this to be profitable. In conclusion, Mr. Ashford assured the deputation that the only desire of the Commission was to deal fairly with those in the industry.

BLACK DISEASE.

Dr. Sydney Dodd, pathologist and bacteriologist, of Sydney University, Veterinary Research Laboratory, who for four years has been engaged in research work on black disease in sheep, announces that the result has been crowned with success. He has discovered the cause of black disease, and states that the proofs are such as will satisfy all scientific criticism. Dr. Dodd is now engaged in finding means for preventing this disease, as a cure can hardly be hoped for, seeing that the affected animal is either usually found dead or death takes place very soon after the animal is discovered to be ill.

This announcement will be welcomed by stockowners, as this disease has become much more prevalent of recent years, and the total loss to the State has been estimated on a conservative basis at some £400,000. Consequently, pastoralists have been keenly interested in the efforts made to discover more about this disease.

REJECTED WHEAT.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Thursday.

Of 50,000 sacks of wheat landed in Auckland over 3000 have been rejected by the millers on account of weevils.

In connection with the Auckland report concerning the rejection of Australian wheat, the head of the Agricultural Department declares that the statement is absolutely incorrect. He says that the millers had nothing to do with the rejection of wheat put aboard at Melbourne, but the New Zealand Government graders there refused to accept delivery of wheat lying at Auckland at the risk of the Australian Wheat Board.

LIDCOMBE'S EFFORT.

The Lidcombe Agricultural Bureau is holding its first show in the Lidcombe Town Hall on Saturday, October 26. A feature will be the staging of the business men's exhibit, the object being to encourage support of the district and bring prominently under the notice of local residents its resources.

LAW REPORT.

BANCO JURY COURT.

(Before Sir Wm. Cullen, C.J., and jury.)

ACTION FOR SLANDER.

Richardson v Braithwaite.

The plaintiff, Martha Richardson, a domestic servant, sued the defendant, Mattie Braithwaite, spinster, claiming £500 damages, for alleged slander. Plaintiff, a young woman, had been in the defendant's employ at Nowra for about a year before Christmas, 1917, when, according to Richardson, a dispute occurred, and plaintiff was given a month's notice. Before the time had expired, the defendant wrote a letter to a young man who had been keeping company with the plaintiff, the terms of which, it was contended, inferred that the plaintiff bore an immoral character. The letter was shown by the recipient to the plaintiff, who also alleged that it had otherwise been published by the defendant. The defence was a general plea of not guilty. Mr. H. G. Edwards, instructed by Mr. E. R. Abigail, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Mocatta, instructed by Messrs. Weaver and Allworth, Sydney agents for Messrs. Ryan and Son, Kiama, for the defendant.

His Honor granted a non-suit on the motion of Mr. Mocatta, on the ground that, in the relationship existing between the parties, the letter complained of was privileged in law.

SURRIDGE v READ.

This case was settled on terms announced in Court.

IN DIVORCE.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon and a jury of 12.)

WEEKS v WEEKS.

John Weeks petitioned for a divorce from Margaret Mary Weeks (formerly Clayton), on the ground of her alleged adultery with William James Joseph Hinton, who was joined as co-respondent. The petitioner claimed damages from the co-respondent. The marriage took place at Isabella, New South Wales, on September 7, 1903, according to the rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

The parties to the suit resided at Burraga. Mr. W. Curtis and Mr. McTiernan, instructed by Mr. F. B. Kenny, of Bathurst (by his Sydney agents, Messrs. Fulton and Lowe), appeared for the petitioner; and Mr. L. S. Abrahams, instructed by Messrs. Gordon and Garling, of Young, by their Sydney agent, Mr. W. H. Johnson, appeared for the respondent on the question of the custody of the children and for the co-respondent on the question of damages.

The jury returned a verdict for the petitioner, and awarded £750 damages against the co-respondent. His Honor then pronounced a decree nisi, returnable in six months, the petitioner to have custody of three of the children of the marriage, and the respondent to have custody of the youngest child.

(Before his Honor Judge Rolin.)

CIGAR-MAKERS' AWARD.

On the application of the Cigar Factory Employees' Union of New South Wales a new award was made by consent, under the Manufacturing No. 3 Group, No. 2 (Cigar-makers, State) Board, by which former rates were increased by 20 per cent., practically the whole of the employees being on piece-work. Mr. Henwood appeared for the union, Mr. F. R. Smith for the State Tobacco Company, Ltd., and Mr. Schroeder for the Cigar Manufacturers' Association.

LITHGOW AND BATHURST BRICK-MAKERS.

A new award, claiming 3d per hour increase all round, was applied for by the Brickmakers and Clayworkers Employees' Union of New South Wales, under the Manufacturing (No. 1) Group, No. 1 (Brickmakers, State) Board, on behalf of the employees in Lithgow and Bathurst. Mr. Henwood appeared for the applicant union, and Mr. A. E. Ivatt for the Lithgow Valley Pottery Works, Ltd., and the Vale of Clywdd Pottery Company, Ltd. Evidence was taken on the question whether the industry was prosperous. His Honor reserved his decision.

TIMBER WORKERS' AWARD.

The Amalgamated Timber Workers' Union of Australia (New South Wales branch) applied for an alteration of the constitution of the Building Trades Group No. 10 (Sawmillers, etc., Cumberland and Newcastle) Board, so as to embrace employees engaged in unloading vessels or trucks. Mr. Henwood appeared in support of the application, and Mr. Cork for the New South Wales Sawmillers' Association.

The matter is part heard.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Scholes.)

Mr. Herbert Harris, Crown Prosecutor.

Annie Enway was charged with stealing a number of articles, the property of Phillip Stokes and another. By his Honor's direction the accused, for whom Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared, was found not guilty.

Herbert Robert Trickett, who was defended by Mr. H. E. McIntosh, was charged with stealing three umbrellas, the property of the New South Wales Railway Commissioners. The Crown Prosecutor said that Trickett was employed as a signal section man when the umbrellas were taken on September 3. Without leaving the box the jury found Trickett not guilty, and added that they wished him to be discharged without any stain on his character. His Honor, in carrying out the recommendation of the jury, said that the acquittal had removed any opprobrium in which Trickett may have been held by his friends and his fellow employees in connection with the charge of larceny.

Victor Clingan, who had been found guilty of false pretences, was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment in Goulburn Gaol.

ROD-FISHERS.

A deputation consisting of members of the New South Wales Rod Fishers' Association waited on the Chief Secretary (Mr. G. W. Fuller) yesterday afternoon to ask that the trout season in New South Wales be opened on certain rivers on October 1. Mr. Fuller said he was unable to do anything at present, as the reports of the officers of his department were against the deputation. He, however, invited the association to gather evidence to put before the department.

BUSH FIRES.

Several bush fires were reported yesterday, in each case the assistance of the fire brigades being required to beat out the flames. Two acres of bush in Oswald-street, Neutral Bay, which caught alight shortly before noon, required attention by Neutral Bay station. At Mosman two small fires were extinguished. Two fires also occurred at Sandringham, one at Punchbowl, and one at Chatswood.

NO INTEREST WANTED.

The Premier has received a despatch from the Agent-General, in which he furnishes the name of a gentleman holding £500 worth of New South Wales stock, bearing interest at the rate of 5¾ per cent., who desires to devote the interest to the State Treasury until peace is signed. He writes:—"I wish to return dividends on the stock to the New South Wales Government, as I do with the British War Loans. . . . I only subscribe in order to help our grand Australian friends, and do not want any profit."

A.L.P. BALLOT.

The Shop Assistants' Union has decided not to have anything to do with the A.L.P. recruiting ballot, and to return the papers to the A.L.P. office.

Mr. Glynn, president of the Hospital Employees' Union, referring to the ballot yesterday, said that Australia was in the war to the finish. The enemy certainly would get justice, but he must stand his trial before the court of the world and accept its judgment. Mr. Glynn asked, "Is the essence of the A.L.P. peace terms imported?"

FINED FOR DIRTY PREMISES.

At the Central Summons Court yesterday, Inspector Arthur Kench proceeded against M'Dowell's, Ltd., proprietors of the "Frou Frou" Cafe, George-street, on a charge of having unclean premises.

Inspector A. C. Patten stated that he visited the cafe kept by the defendant company on September 12. The floor of the kitchen was badly fouled with dirt and grease, and under the sink and shelves there was an accumulation of dirt and food scraps which smelt foully. The garbage tin was overloaded and was very dirty. The cereal tin was in a dirty state, and there were cobwebs inside the bread tin. In the ice chest were four wooden grid shelves, which were thick with slime and mould. The inside of the chest was encrusted with dirt with which meat was in direct contact. In order to find out the cause of a stench the vegetable safe, a wooden structure, was moved, and the floor underneath it was almost two inches thick with a black semi-liquid filth. There were 18 women and girls employed in the cafe, and there was no dressing accommodation. The shelves and walls about the foodstuffs were strewn with wearing apparel, including shoes.

The company pleaded guilty, and stated that since the inspector visited the premises the place had been cleaned.

A fine of £20 and 6/ costs was imposed.

The Aerated Bread Company, Ltd., was proceeded against also on a charge of having unclean premises on September 12. Inspector Horne said that when he visited the factory and bakehouse of the company at Camperdown he found the floors near the mixing machine in a filthy condition; the table for melting butter was also dirty. A fine of £10 and 6/ costs was recorded.

AMUSEMENTS.

KAMBALA ENTERTAINMENT.

An entertainment was organised at King's Hall last night by the Misses Roseby and the pupils of Kambala, under the auspices of the Kambala Union, in aid of the Jack's Day Fund. The central feature consisted of scenes from "Cranford" by the girls, who conveyed the atmosphere of the period not only in their early Victorian costumes, but also in the antiquated formality of their ceremonious manners. A piece with more humour and "stiffening" in it was "The War Committee," a sprightly comedy scene which roused the audience to responsive laughter. The junior classes supplemented these acceptable efforts with action-songs, and music from the romantic repertoire was contributed with artistic success by Mr. Roy Agnew, Mr. Orme Darvall, Mr. Henri Staell, and Miss Charmian Bell, with a musical-comedy duet by Miss Morean and Dr. Eakin. Mr. Rancland was the accompanist.

ST. JOHN'S SCHOOL SPORTS.

St. John's Parochial Day School, Darlinghurst, held their nineteenth annual sports meeting on the Rushcutter Bay Oval on Wednesday afternoon. There was a good attendance. The entries were numerous, and the whole 33 events were well and evenly contested. The Rev. F. G. Alexander and Messrs. Campbell and Johnson acted as starters, and the Rev. A. E. Rook and Mr. John Hawley as judges.

ASHFIELD AND THE WAR LOAN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I desire to point out that the information published in the newspapers and on the honour board in Moore-street as to the subscription to the war loan in Ashfield is entirely misleading, and I cannot understand whence it has been obtained. I took an active part in a number of meetings in support of the war loan in the Ashfield Municipality, and at each of them considerable enthusiasm was displayed. At a recent public meeting in the Town Hall, Ashfield, in connection with the March to Freedom, I made an appeal, particularly for small subscriptions, and in addition to larger subscriptions the sum of £1200 was promised at that meeting in £10 and £20 bonds. I also took the opportunity, as it arose, of making a personal canvass, and I am aware of three subscriptions in Ashfield amounting to £20,000, and of other subscriptions with the £20,000 making a total of £50,000.

I trust that the Commonwealth authorities will soon make the actual subscriptions known, so that if there is any shortage—which I do not anticipate—in Ashfield's contribution an effort may be made to make up the amount before the 28th instant. I have written this short note, as I am aware that considerable adverse comment is being made as the result of the misleading information that has been published.

I am, etc.,
W. E. V. ROBSON.

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of yesterday appears an appeal from the president of the Proportional Representation Society in which the writer expresses the gravest concern for the future welfare of democracy, and then follow four paragraphs more or less in analysis of the evils of the present party system. No one questions the evils of the present system, but to claim or urge that the introduction of proportional representation will improve or do away with the evils of the party machine is to urge against the facts.

The proportional system of voting will prop a dying cause; but, judging by Tasmania's experience, it will only accentuate the party feeling and buttress machine politics. It is no use asking for Parliament to set a high standard of public probity. Parliament is only derived from the people, and will inevitably reflect the standards of the people. The stream can rise no higher than its source.

Profiteering, cornering, withholding, and extorting would not be permitted in a community whose standard of ethics aimed at the general betterment of the people; but while such practices are tolerated, then the evils of party government and machine politics, like wars, will continue to exist.

I am, etc., P. C. EVANS,
General Secretary, Australian Labour Party.

RELIGIOUS LITERATURE.

THE JESUS OF HISTORY.

When Mr. T. R. Glover speaks on any historical theme he is sure of an audience, and when he brings his trained historical sense and his powers of lucid and interesting writing to bear upon the greatest figure in history he is doubly welcome. As the Archbishop of Canterbury says in a foreword, "Mr. Glover possesses the rare power of reverently handling familiar truths or facts in such a manner as to seem to make them almost new." In this volume he deals with the history of Jesus as presented in the Gospels, and he makes the old story as fresh to us as if we had read it for the first time. The author is not concerned with questions of textual criticism. He so presents to us the Jesus of history as He spoke and acted that all sense of unreality vanishes, and we feel how close Jesus comes to our own experiences, and our own thoughts, so that the reality of His Person is borne in upon heart and mind. It is the finest kind of historical writing, the gift of letting us see the man of whom the author writes, so that the man rather than the author is speaking to us. The book reveals Jesus, reveals Him as the centre of the world's history, as the great and gracious and permanent Teacher. Jesus is seen to be inevitably historical, not by argument but because of the place He fills. To think Him away is to leave ourselves in hopeless mental confusion. As Mr. Glover says: "Jesus is not a mere figure of antiquity; He is not a dead issue. He has to be reckoned with still, and men who are to treat mankind seriously must make the intellectual effort to understand the Man on whom has been centred more of the interest and the passion of the most serious and the best of mankind than any other." What Mr. Glover does is to make us understand the Man. He treats of the early stages of the life of Jesus, so far as these are recorded; but the main part of the book is taken up not with the teaching of Jesus, but with Jesus as Teacher on such subjects as God, man, sin, the Cross. There is a closing chapter on the Christian Church in the Roman Empire. The whole book is full of suggestive light upon the teaching of our Lord, and even the trained scholar will read it with thankfulness and profit.

RELIGION AND COMMON SENSE.

This is another small volume from Mr. Donald Hankey. He "went out" somewhere in France, but "he being dead yet speaketh." One of the characteristics of Hankey was just his common sense, and religion seemed to him the most common-sense thing in the world, so he applied that faculty fearlessly to the problems of life and religion. The volume now before us is a simple but effective piece of apologetic, commending the Christian faith, and especially showing that Christianity is not a hash of Eastern mythology.

On quite other lines is another booklet, "The Theocracy of Jesus," by Mr. Ignatius Singer. Mr. Singer not only believes that the Churches are wrong, but that Christianity itself is a ghastly blunder, for which St. Paul is chiefly to blame. The only thing he would leave us with, and there is more in it than Mr. Singer sees, is the "Golden Rule," which is to be obeyed on the same principle as the law of gravitation or any other law of the physical world. To say the least, Mr. Singer is lopsided.

A NEW GOD.

One often comes across the assertion that religious indifference is widespread. It is, but not quite in the way these people mean. There is much indifference to religious practice and to the moral demands of religion, but the amount of indifference is not to be measured by relation to organised Christianity. There is a large section of people who are keenly interested in religion, though the Church knows them not. Humanity can never be satisfied to know nothing higher than itself, Comte notwithstanding. The pressure of life and the nature of man compel some attempt to find an object of worship and trust. Mr. H. G. Wells is an outstanding illustration of this fact. But alongside this is the intellectual revolt against the traditional teaching on God, and so we have attempts to formulate a fresh conception of the nature of that Higher Power in accord with the facts of experience. The Church should not fail to recognise this new movement, which it would be folly to ignore, and worse folly to scorn. So far, it is an adventure of the soul going out on a voyage of discovery, and if it seem to some that when they come back to report they have seen land through a mist, and not trod its shores or explored its inlets, yet they are voyagers on a great quest. The present stage of world history has forced thought back upon God, and the problem is how, in light of that history, we are to think upon God. The idea, gaining ground in some quarters, of a partial struggling God, must be taken seriously, and dealt with fairly. It is the reaction against the too common idea of an impassive God made up of cold-blooded "decrees."

This is the problem which Mr. Edmund H. Reeman seeks to face and to solve. As he says "In what kind of God we can believe is a vital question for mankind, and one with very definite and practical bearings upon the every-day problem of living." The author is quite sure that a very radical change is needed in our thoughts of God, for he is thoroughly dissatisfied with the traditional conception of God as all-powerful and all-good. He says that it does not fit the facts of life and of experience. We may say at once that Mr. Reeman assumes too easily that he knows the facts. The experience of to-day, or even of our generation, may be no more than part of the fact. When he faces us with the alternatives that either God is good but not omnipotent, or God is omnipotent but not good, he is consciously or unconsciously giving a significance to "omnipotent" which no Christian theist would sanction; and when our author argues that an all-powerful and all-good God, if the combination existed, would end the present war to-morrow by a drastic intervention of His own, he assumes that God's purpose is limited to one thing, and must work in a prescribed way. It is at least an arguable case whether God would be doing the best for us and for the future of the world had he smashed the Germans "on His own" and without our co-operation, with its consequent sacrifice and its urgent call to needed reformation. Is God not making even the wrath of men work out His own divinely good purpose? So when Mr. Reeman asks, in light of the present war, "Is God anywhere now intervening in human affairs in behalf of righteousness, as far as we are able to see?" the answer is written large over these tragic pages of history that God has and is so intervening in ways that are wiser than Mr. Reeman. The fatal flaw in German calculations was that they took account of everything but a God of righteousness. And when we read, "we all believe and hope that the good will prevail" one may justifiably ask on what grounds Mr. Reeman would base this belief, except through a God, who is supreme in such a way that He can and will make His purpose to prevail. There is no real ground for such a faith, if it depends upon "a new kind of God," who is certainly "doing the best He can," and struggling to get the upper hand, and in the process, finding Himself. For such a God we may hope the best, but there is no assurance that He will succeed. Our thoughts of God are yet imperfect, and there are pagan and unworthy thoughts, and wholly wrong thoughts, which shelter under the common Christian conception, but we may be sure that we think of God most truly when we think of Him as supreme in power as in goodness.

PROBLEMS OF THE MESS TABLE.

Here is a little book, entitled "Our Mess," which we hope none of our readers will fail to get, the reading is assured. The problems of the mess table may foolishly be imagined to be those of meat and drink, but these are the problems of the Q.M.G., which are solved before you reach the mess. Nor are they the problems of war, which are taboo as "shop." The problems of the mess table are the problems of life, the problems you and I have to face at home, but with a difference. Mr. MacFadyen has given us in an interesting and humorous way the kind of discussion which goes on in many a hut in France, especially when, as here, you have a Cosmopolitan, a philosopher, an Edinburgh ecclesiastic, and a Scottish Laird fresh from the heather, each sure that wisdom will die with him.

THE CHURCH AS SHE OUGHT TO BE.

If the Church is not awakened and reformed it is not for want of voices crying in her ears. Her friends and her enemies unite in declaring that she is "in extremis," and she must die or change. The author is severe against leaders, who will not lead, and scornful of Bishops, who play for safety. The appeal is to the Church of England by a member of that Church.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1918.

GERMANY IN DEFEAT.

The rumours and denials which to-day emanate from Germany may no doubt be interpreted as an indication of the state of things within the Empire. There are some in Germany who can foretell the inevitable march of events more quickly than others, some in whom the belief in the invincibility of their country and in the divine origin of its institutions are inextricably engrained, some to whom defeat means not merely disaster to their country, but the extinction of themselves and their class. There are others to whom capitulation on any terms would be preferable to their present state of misery, untouched by any prospect of relief. Our knowledge of German tactics throughout the war will enable us to anticipate the fluctuations of these various elements. Their relative prominence will vary with the fortunes of the armies in the West. So long as there is a prospect of their escaping to a short and defensible line on the frontier, the party in control of the government will hold out for a compromise. If the Allies succeed in cutting the main lines of communication through France and Belgium another party will accept President Wilson's terms, recognising at last that he means exactly what he says. For many months past it has been the practice of the German Government to use as a representative on some special occasion or for some special purpose a spokesman whose personality does not expose him to the charges usually levelled against his country. Dr. Solf as a colonial administrator has been humane and farsighted. He is, therefore, put forward to emphasise the claims of Germany to the return of her colonies. He argues from his own record and his own speeches as if they could obliterate all the atrocities inflicted on native races in Africa and all the boasts uttered by publicists of the native armies to be raised and the submarine bases to be created for use in future wars. Prince Max is made Chancellor at a time when Germany wishes to escape retribution for her crimes, because he has protested against barbarism and is less arrogant in demeanour than others of his class. The method has one advantage. The spokesman, if he is not immediately displaced, can speak to other countries with some assurance, and, as Dr. Solf has done, can, for controversial purposes, maintain the identity between himself and his masters. But it has the disadvantage pointed out by Mr. Asquith in the speech we report this morning. The Allied peoples can never be sure that the new Government is not the old dressed up in a democratic garb. They can never ascertain whether a Minister has been thrust forward by irresistible popular pressure or whether he is a creature of the military circle still in control of the empire. In their uncertainty they must fall back on their knowledge of recent German history and on the revelations of German character made during the war. These revelations have taught them to remember with an American writer that there are some blots which soil not only the page on which they fall, but a whole book. There are some crimes committed, such as the violation of Belgium, the treachery of Count Luxburg, and the deportations from Lille, which have warned us that any speaker and any plea advanced on behalf of Germany may be used in such a way as ultimately to deprive the free countries of the world of all the safeguards gained in the war.

The warning of history is peculiarly applicable to rumours of revolution and of the abdication of the Emperor. The trade-unionists of Germany have for four years supported the war aims of their Government, including the expression of them in the treaties of Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest. Their leader, Legien, tried with conspicuous ill-success to induce the workmen of America, through Mr. Gompers, to stand aside from all participation in war work. Their attitude was explained by one of the Minority Socialists, Herr Bernstein, in the first year of the war as inspired by a knowledge that the consequences of defeat fall more heavily on workmen than on their masters. The true explanation is obviously more complex. The German workman has been educated to believe that his country must expand at the expense of weaker peoples if he is to have work and prosperity. He has adopted an economic expression of the gospel preached by the German Emperor in his speeches on the German ideal, and by the Crown Prince in his glorification of the spirit of militarism. It was said many years ago that no German would revolt unless someone had first given him the word of command. The German of to-day will strike against exhaustion from long hours and insufficient food. A minority in the Reichstag has refused to be reconciled with a military government during the last three years. As yet, however, there is no trustworthy evidence of a movement which could and would substitute a republic for the existing autocratic form of government. Resentment against the military party is inevitable. It has taken the lead in a policy which has caused nothing but misery, and it is bound to suffer. It is possible that the Emperor might be forced to abdicate to secure better terms for his country. But neither the censure of the military party nor the abdication of William II. would indicate such a breach with the past, such a dislocation of the German frame of mind as the extinction of the dynasty. Bismarck, who regarded the monarchs of his time as his intellectual inferiors, and said so, nevertheless declared that the German would always cling to a dynasty, to his Hohenzollerns, or his Wittelsbachs, as the ivy to the oak. The Allies look upon the history of the Hohenzollerns and find a tradition of the treachery, the grossness, and the arrogance which have culminated in this war. To their minds the dynasty is the fixed centre which has made all these years of secret preparation possible. The German people at all events until recently saw in the record of the Hohenzollerns the practice of those doctrines which they believed to be fitted to govern the intercourse of one nation with another. The Prussian has for generations looked upon the King's Coat as a garb of honour, and the King as his protector against invasion and the preserver of his well-being. So many things have changed in this war that the German mind may have changed as well, but we should sooner expect to hear of the Prussians remaining loyal to their king when he had fled from their capital as they did a century ago than of following defeat by revolution.

AUSTRALIA'S VETERANS.

That arch-prophet of Prussianism, Frederick the Great, speaking in 1740, said:—"Take what you can; you are never wrong unless you are obliged to give back." The phrase is as applicable to the condition of Germany to-day as it is to a consideration of what would have happened had the men of British blood not sprung to arms in 1914. There is no question that Germany would have taken what she could, and that the armies now reeling back to the Rhine under the hammer-blows of the Allies would by now have had half the world in chains. These are no vague theories, but certainties arising from the logic of the events of the last four terrible years; and they must colour all considerations of our attitude towards the men of the early battalions who are now coming back amongst us on furlough. In 1914, when these men donned khaki, the issues involved in this war were not so clearly defined as they are to-day. Now, with a clearer perception of what the war means to us as a free people, comes the knowledge that it was the firm, prompt, uncompromising action of the British Empire in the beginning of the war that saved the cause of the Allies. Our men went because Great Britain was at war, and had sent ringing across the world a rallying cry to all her sons. Those who in 1914 flocked into the ranks beneath the Union Jack went because their country wanted them and asked of them the utmost sacrifice, and in that respect they will always stand forth in our vision as the highest type of patriots. We cannot grade our regard for our soldiers. The men who enlist in 1918 and do their duty are entitled to rank with the 1914 veterans in the honour and respect which they receive at the hands of the nation; but to the 1914 men goes the greater glory, and none will begrudge it to them.

To-day we see our magnificent war machine—created in four years by civilians from civilian material—sweeping irresistibly onward; but back in the black days of 1915, at Ypres and Gallipoli, Loos and Neuve Chapelle, before we had mastered the arts of war, only the splendid bravery and sacrifice of our youth, the tenacity of the British spirit, held back a military force that arrogantly named itself supreme. The men who survived those battles and are coming back amongst us are a living tangible link, not only between a terrible period of the war and a present that is brightened by triumph, but also between a people who are now waiting to cheer the conclusion of a victorious peace and the young men who died so that this thing might be possible. In doing honour to the living we dare not forget the dead. These returning Anzacs are but a remnant of the young battalions who sailed away exactly four years ago to-morrow. Their comrades lie beneath little wooden crosses, in Egypt, Gallipoli, Palestine, and France. Their message to Australia comes very clear and definite from thousands of lonely graves, and it demands that Australians shall be worthy of the sacrifices made for them. The task they began is not yet complete, and until it is there remains the obligation of "the last man and the last shilling." While we are honouring the Anzacs we may be sure that the Anzacs are very closely analysing public sentiment here, deciding whether we realise all that our soldiers have done for us and whether we are doing our part. In other words, whether we are worthy. A public spirit that is reflected in buoyant recruiting figures, in a readiness for public service, and in a determination to protect the interests of our soldiers in all particulars will enable us to meet our returning veterans without shame.

URGENT PUBLIC WORKS.

It is only natural that people in different parts of the country who have daily evidence of the great need of railway, port, or other facilities should at times feel themselves neglected, and fail fully to appreciate the causes. From time to time the resolutions of influential conferences express this discontent, as, for instance, did two which were reported only yesterday. One at Tamworth urged the early establishment of a port for oversea shipment at Port Stephens together with railway connections with the north and north-west. The other, which met at Grafton, deprecated what was described as the "systematic neglect" of all interests vital to the progress and development of the North Coast, and emphatically protested against further delay in the completion of the North Coast railway. Equally strong exception is taken in other parts of the State to delay in regard to other undertakings. Without individualising, or entering into the respective merits of any of the projects, it may be confidently asserted that the cause of national development has the fullest sympathy of the public. But the Government's hands are tied. Did we not suffer in this matter our promise to give, if need be, our last man and last shilling in the cause for which the Empire is fighting would be an empty and hypocritical phrase. It is because we are endeavouring to make good this promise that our public works have been so restricted, and there can be no doubt that even those who feel the most aggrieved have only got to realise this root cause and they will murmur no more while prevailing conditions obtain.

While the war continues it is necessary that the whole of the financial resources of the Commonwealth should stand behind our armed forces; and our domestic requirements must for the time being adjust themselves accordingly. To this end the borrowings of the State, by arrangement with the Federal Treasurer, are being kept down to a minimum. For the State Government to insist otherwise would be disloyal. It would embarrass our war finance, and would justify the condemnation of every patriotic citizen. In the case of the North Coast railway and certain other undertakings some people may urge that the local loan propositions are a solution that should not be ignored. But every penny so borrowed would restrict the potential field of Commonwealth borrowing for war purposes. So much the less would be available in the money market. At a time when our national safety and honour are at stake it is the duty of the Government to see that these proffered loans are diverted to the more urgent needs. But it would be a mistake to suppose that these requirements have been lost sight of, and that the need for greater decentralisation is only admitted and not intended to be acted upon. Unquestionably, as soon as the financial position allows it, work will have to be pushed ahead. Many undertakings will be required in order to increase production, for it is generally conceded that only so can we hope to lift the burden of debt that has been cast upon us by the war. It might indeed be well definitely to formulate a post-war programme forthwith so that these works will be pushed ahead in the order of their urgency. Any successful developmental policy, of course, presupposes a steady flow of immigration following the repatriation period, and it is not too early to make preparations for bringing this about.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson, attended by Captain Stanham, opened the patriotic demonstration at the Town Hall yesterday in honour of returned Anzacs.

Lady Davidson, attended by Captain Saltmarshe, opened a parish fair in the hall of St. Matthias', Paddington, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. G. S. Beeby, Minister for Labour and Industry, proposes to leave for America at the end of the month.

At the Paddington Fire Station a silver flower stand was presented by the officers and men of the station to Station-officer Tuck, who has been transferred to Kogarah. A fountain pen and pocket wallet were presented to Private H. Richmond, a member of the brigade, who is shortly leaving on active service.

PREMIER AT YOUNG.

LABOUR AND THE WAR.

YOUNG, Thursday.

Speaking to-night, Mr. Holman said that the recent developments within the Labour party were a clear indication of the bitter struggle between the responsible leaders and the disaffected elements who, they believed, were only a minority but who had a position of great official power within the ranks. At the present moment a desperate struggle was going on within the ranks of the Labour party upon the recruiting ballot which emanated from the Perth conference. He still believed the majority of the Labour party were loyal, sound, patriotic citizens, but they must rid themselves of the pernicious elements amongst them if they were ever to take their place as a great movement within Australia. (Applause.) The people of Australia would never forget the action of the Perth Labour Conference or the party that had ordered a ballot to be taken, and which had recommended its followers to vote "Yes." Their motive may have been, as many suspected, sheer treachery, or it may have been, as he was inclined to think, honest cowardice and incompetence. Whichever it was, Australia was only saved from disgrace by the fact that the Labour party was in a position where it had no power. (Applause.) Now that the tide had turned men within the Labour ranks were starting up everywhere to say that they had no act or part in this miserable exhibition. The authority of the Perth Conference was diminishing every day. The fundamental common-sense and honesty with which he credited the Labour movement were repudiating the whole thing with scorn. "We had to-day," said the Premier, "the miserable spectacle of officers and organisers engaged in writing imploring letters to leagues to take a ballot, and at all events make some pretence of support for the proposals." (Applause.)

THE TRAINS.

SUMMER TIME-TABLE.

Yesterday the Railway Department issued particulars of the alterations in the railway time-tables to meet the requirements of the summer passenger traffic.

To provide facilities for passengers in the Southern tourist district an additional train will leave Sydney at 3.50 p.m. for Moss Vale, serving Picton and beyond, and on Fridays will run to Bundanoon.

The present 4 a.m. train from Goulburn to Sydney will start from Goulburn on Mondays and Saturdays only, and on other days from Moss Vale, but from Tuesdays to Fridays inclusive a new train will leave Goulburn for Sydney at 6.57 a.m., serving all stations to Mittagong, which will avoid the inconvenience hitherto caused by passengers travelling from Goulburn, Moss Vale, Bowral, and Mittagong by the Melbourne express train.

An additional train will also leave Moss Vale on Saturdays at 3.20 p.m., to relieve the day passenger train from Harden, which will run through from Mittagong.

The new station at Cootamundra West will be brought into use, and the mail train services to and from Temora will run direct instead of having to reverse at the present Cootamundra station. The Tumut mixed trains will also start from and terminate at Cootamundra West.

Additional trains will be run to and from the Mountains at week-ends.

The mail train from Forbes to Sydney will start at 4.20 p.m., and arrive Sydney at 6.25 a.m., and the service on the Coonamble and Coonabarabran lines will be accelerated.

Numerous alterations will be made in times of connecting mixed train services on the various Western branch lines.

An important alteration will be made as regards the running of the north-west mail trains. The "down" train hitherto leaving Sydney at 6.50 p.m. for Moree will start at 4.5 p.m., and the mail train at present leaving Moree for Sydney at 3.25 p.m. will start at 2 p.m., and be accelerated to arrive at Sydney at 6.45 a.m. instead of 9.5 a.m., which will also give considerable acceleration in the journey time from Inverell. The connecting services to and from Walgett, Collarenebri East, and Mungindi will be altered to suit.

The mail train from Sydney to Kempsey will start at 6.50 p.m., instead of 7.20, and leave Kempsey at 8.15 p.m. instead of 6.5, reaching Sydney at 9.5 a.m.

Additional services will be provided on Sunday mornings to Wollongong and intermediate stations, leaving Sydney at about 8.30 a.m., with a corresponding return train in the evening.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In view of the forthcoming increase in railway fares, it would be interesting to know just what influence towards the imposition of higher rates is exercised by the continued indiscriminate issue of periodical tickets at half-rates to all female travellers, irrespective of their age, income, or occupation. There are undoubtedly numerous instances in which such a concession is warranted, but it is significant that the New South Wales season ticket rates for short distances are excessive, and far in advance of those prevailing in the other States. It is a poor sort of argument to plead, as do the Commissioners, that for longer distances our rates are cheapest. The working-man or the low-paid married man is not concerned with the fares applying to places 50 miles from the metropolis. There is not the slightest doubt that preferential rates for women are largely responsible for this new increase, and some curtailment of these unjust rebates is urgently needed.

A comparative table of periodical ticket rates for five States and for New Zealand is shown below:—

No rebate whatever is allowed to females in New Zealand, Tasmania, or South Australia. In Western Australia they are allowed half-fare only if related to and residing in the same house as a male full-fare ticket-holder, or 33 per cent. rebate if in receipt of less than £90 per annum. In Queensland the wives (only) of full-fare season ticket holders are allowed half-fare tickets between the same stations.

It is interesting to note that during the past 12 years the first-class monthly rate between Petersham and Sydney has been advanced from 12/3 to 16/3 for male travellers, and reduced to 8/4 for females. The same condition applies between all other stations distant 101 miles or less apart.

BURRANGONG SEAT.

YOUNG, Thursday.

The electorate conference of the National Association, Burrangong electorate, held here this afternoon, was presided over by the Premier, Mr. Holman, and the nominations of John Taylor, Mayor of Grenfell, and Thomas George Adamson, farmer, near Tamworth, were received for selection as the Nationalist candidate. The meeting expressed regret that the farmers and settlers' district council had not seen its way up to the present to confer as to joint action in running a candidate. It was unanimously decided to recommend Mr. Taylor for selection, but to ask the central executive to withhold endorsement pending further efforts to come to a satisfactory understanding with the executive of the Farmers and Settlers' Association. The general opinion was that Mr. Taylor might be acceptable to the farmers and settlers. He has already been endorsed by the Grenfell branch.

JACK'S DAY.

ROSE FETE AT CENTENNIAL PARK.

Extensive preparations have been made by the ladies of the Red Cross for the rose fete and carnival which is to be opened by Lady Davidson in Centennial Park at 11 a.m. to-morrow. There will be a guard of honour of V.A.Ds., Anzacs, and old Veterans. Provision has been made for an attendance of many tens of thousands. A fleet of cars lent for the occasion will convey visitors from the special trams at the gates of the park to the fete at a charge of 6d. A great variety of entertainment is promised, ranging from naval and military displays and putting competitions to merry-go-rounds, donkey rides, Punch and Judy shows, and displays by pupils of the Education Department. The stalls number over 70, and are spread over 100 acres of ground. All kinds of goods and services will be on sale. The Kensington Red Cross Society, for instance, will provide a cold luncheon in their large marquee, No. 55, on the ridge between the cricket and polo grounds. The Concord West Red Cross will sell packet luncheons and cool drinks on the lawn, while six large refreshment tents will be in charge of V.A.D. Among the many entertainments will be one by the University Minstrel Troupe in a special marquee near the lily garden. The students will give four novel and remarkable performances, comprising farce, burlesque, and original potted plays. Lady Davidson will be present at the 3.30 performance.

At the naval and military sports at the rose fete there will be mounted and dismounted events and competitions for convalescent sailors and soldiers. All friends of sailors and soldiers are cordially invited to be present.

The harbour trip and marine concert that provided such an enjoyable evening for the hundreds that adopted this method of helping Jack's Day on Wednesday night will be repeated on Saturday night, when the saloon steamer Kuramia will leave Fort Macquarie at 8 o'clock sharp. The Royal Sydney Apollo Club, Newtown Band, Scottish pipers, assisted by many well-known high-class artists, will render an interesting programme. The tickets, which cost 2/, may be obtained at Paling's or at the wharf. So that patrons may catch their trains and boats it has been arranged for the steamer to return at 10.15 p.m. punctually.

The Elizabethan pageant will be repeated on Wednesday night at Clifton Gardens.

Messrs. G. W. Ord and J. C. M'Intosh are hon. secretary and treasurer respectively of the Lismore committee, which has made complete arrangements for Jack's Day, to be held at Lismore to-morrow.

A number of additional prizes in connection with the lucky-packet event have been received this week, including a trip to New Zealand, given by Messrs. Huddart, Parker, and Co., several war-saving certificates, a piano valued at £90 by Messrs. Beale and Co., a box at the Palace Theatre by Messrs. J. and N. Tait, and numerous other articles. In all about 500 super prizes will be placed in the envelopes.

In connection with the gallery of pictures, which are being given by the artists of Sydney to Jack's Day, a special exhibition will be held at Canberra-chambers, Elizabeth-street, on Tuesday, October 29, and it is proposed to ask his Excellency the Governor to open the function.

Jack's Day events for to-day are:—Concert in St. James's Hall by Queensland Patriotic Circle; dance in Paddington Town Hall by Imperial Service Club; ball by Giant's Creek and Sandy Hollow Progress Association at Giant's Creek, Denman.

Arrangements are being made for the grand concert and naval demonstration at the Town Hall on Friday, October 25. The box plan is now open at Paling's. Tickets, 5/ (reserved), and 3/, 2/, and 1/, may be obtained at the Hotel Australia and Dalton House.

At a meeting held at the wool saleroom, Royal Exchange, the final arrangements were made by the Ancient Mariners' League for Jack's Day. The ladies were appointed for the four stalls at the front of the Exchange, and for the curio stall alongside the Endeavour. Donations amounting to over £100 were received. Several gifts to be raffled for were also sent in, amongst them being a splendid brass gong, presented by Mr. Livingstone, made out of a shell fired by an Australian vessel at the Dardanelles. A beautiful silverplated rose bowl was presented by Prouds, Ltd. The crew of the Endeavour—36 girls—received their sailor caps; these girls will be mostly collectors, button-sellers, or raffle book holders. Forty-four ladies will officiate at the stalls. The Endeavour will be fully rigged, and a curio museum will be on view. In the evening, from 8 to 9.30, a series of magnificent nautical pictures supplied by the Navy League will be thrown on to the walls of the Lands building in Gresham-street. At noon sharp, eight bells, the whole staff and crew of the Endeavour will sing "Eternal Father, Strong to Save." Any girls belonging to the crew who have not received their sailor hats can get them at Royal Humane Society's room, Royal Exchange, 56 Pitt-street.

Mr. Arthur Rickard has arranged for the Millions Club luncheon to be held in the ballroom at Sargents in Market-street on Thursday next, at 12.45.

A gift social evening was held at the Railway Institute in connection with the Jack's Day stall of the employees of Howard Smith, Ltd. The guests were received by Mr. R. R. Murdoch (manager). A large number of useful and valuable gifts were presented.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—May I make a suggestion that I am sure will meet with the hearty approval of the majority of the population, and will also be the means of greatly increasing the takings, and that is to have a special button or badge for sale to all members and ex-members of our naval forces and mercantile shipping. All those to whom I have spoken agree with me. Of course, if the general public wish to purchase, and I think a great number will, so much the better.

WAR PROPAGANDA.

GENERAL SCHEME OF WORK.

The general scheme of work of the directorate of educational propaganda on war and peace issues was explained at a largely-attended public meeting last night in the Royal Exchange. Professor T. J. Wilson presided, and with him on the platform were Mr. Justice Heydon, Miss Marks, Mr. J. C. Watson, Mr. C. B. Thistlethwayte (State secretary), Mr. T. R. Bavin, M.L.A., and the directors of the propaganda.

Professor Wilson said that the propaganda was non-party, non-political, and non-sectarian, and representatives of every shade of public opinion had been invited to attend. He claimed that the Federal Government was taking a correct action in seeking to justify the national policy before the country. There had been, in some directions, a weakening in the steadfastness and enthusiasm with which Australia faced the first years of war. They had to inquire into that, to show that the high purposes which brought Britain into the war in 1914 never demanded realisation more insistently than they do to-day. But the people must be fed constantly with a knowledge of what is going on, and what issues are involved in the development of the war situation. People were forgetting their clear impressions of 1914, and lads and girls were becoming men and women. One could not expect a prevailing spirit of earnestness if there was a lack of knowledge, of imagination. Even though the end of the war seemed possible, there was a need for propaganda, for all the critical issues of the peace controversy had still to come before the public, and they ought to be clearly understood.

Mr. W. J. Pickin (Education Director) described the objective of the directorate thus:

To keep the main issues of the war and of peace before the people of Australia, by essentially educational methods. These issues may be enumerated somewhat as follows:—

(1) The causes of the war, both immediate and underlying.

(2) The aims, whether expressly acknowledged or not, of the two groups of belligerent nations; and the conditions necessary, and sufficient, for the achievement of these respective aims.

(3) The risk of a wrong kind of peace, and the dangers of such a peace; and the characteristics of an honourable and lasting peace.

(4) Australia's relation to the war:—(1) The spirit in which she entered it; the part she has played in it; and her present attitude towards it. (2) What she has at stake in it, both materially and morally. (3) The part she ought to play in the peace settlement, both for her own sake and for the cause of peace itself. (4) The effect upon her relations with the motherland and the other British peoples.

(5) Germany's methods in peace and war; barbarities and intriguing and untrustworthiness.

(6) The danger of war-weariness, and of staleness on the part of war-workers; and the need to foster a spirit of endurance till a righteous peace has been won.

(7) The supreme importance of finding a sound basis of national unity for solving the problems of war and peace.

The disloyal propaganda which had gone on unchecked for a considerabe time had become a national danger, and it had to be countered by a propaganda based on education and facts. It was their desire to promote loyalty and patriotism in Australia. Unfortunately, there was no agreement as to the meaning of the terms. It was characteristic of the Australian that he would not take his opinions ready made from any conventional or traditional school. The Australian insisted on thinking things out for himself, and so we got a wide and difficult variety of sincere views on national questions. There was need for education on national ideals, and the true principles of citizenship. They hoped with the assistance of the people generally, to stimulate a desire for knowledge on these great questions, particularly in the lurid light of the war. There was in Australia a dangerous division into classes—an extraordinary thing in a country which called itself the most advanced democracy in the world—and there was a disposition on the part of each class to be profoundly suspicious of everything advocated by the other class. The complete lack of sympathy between these classes was expressed in the newspapers, which were divided between the two. The aim of their propaganda was to bring the two classes together, ignoring the irreconcilable extremists on either side, and smoothing away the differences among the great mass of people generally. The work was important in a national sense, because it dealt with questions which lay at the core of our life, not only in war, but also in peace.

Mr. D. Norman Trenery (organising director) described the work of organisation. The work was divided between the States, and the State's operations were in turn divided between departments, each department administered by a committee under the State executive. The work of the committees would include the selection and distribution of literature, the selection and instruction of public speakers; the arrangement of public meetings; the extension of the work of propaganda through public organisations; making whatever use was possible of space allowed by newspapers and magazines; the distribution of pamphlets and leaflets; and the financing of these various operations. The 14 members of these seven committees, with a chairman and secretary, would comprise the State executive. The members of the executive thus far appointed were:—Chairman, Professor T. J. Wilson; executive, Miss Marks, Mr. Justice Heydon, Messrs. T. R. Bavin, M.L.A., George Christie, Thomas Crouch, H. J. L. Harrison, H. S. Nicholas, H. A. Russell, H. P. Williams, and Professor J. B. Peden, M.L.C.

Mr. J. C. Watson moved,—"That this meeting approves of the aims and methods of the directorate of war propaganda, and undertakes to do all in its power to further the aims and objects of the movement." His remark, made in the course of a stirring speech that "all we in Australia require is the truth," was loudly applauded. It was as necessary that we have this propaganda, he declared, as that we should have peace. The resolution was seconded by Miss Marks, and carried unanimously.

PAPER SHORTAGE.

The 19th annual conference of the Country Press Association, which will be opened by his Excellency the Governor at the Southern Cross Hall, 197 Castlereagh-street, Sydney, next Tuesday morning, will consider the question of paper shortage. The secretary, in his report, says that the outlook in regard to paper supplies is dark. Both Norway and America may now be written off as a possible source for large parcels of paper until after the war. Canada, too, has imposed very stringent conditions on the export of newspaper. There is every evidence that more tonnage will be available from the western coast of America next year, but it is also clear that little paper will be procurable. Indeed, if one fourth of the normal requirements of the Australian trade reached these shores it is the most that can be hoped for. Doubtless the reason which prompted the Federal Government in taking a census of the paper on hand in Australia on July 27 last was to ascertain what stocks really obtain so that the minimum amount required by proprietors during 1919 might be computed and shipping licenses issued for importation of the same.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST INFLUENZA.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The Federal Quarantine Department received a cable message from New Zealand to-day stating that the passengers and crew of the vessel which arrived from America on Monday with influenza aboard had been subjected to inhalation and disinfectant treatment, and allowed their liberty. There were 100 persons affected, mostly members of the crew, and one death had occurred from bronchial pneumonia. Twenty-five patients had been removed to hospital.

When the steamer reaches Sydney the whole of the ship's complement will be placed in quarantine.

KENNY, V.C.

Corporal Bede Kenny, V.C., and 20 other returned soldiers who were old boys of the Christian Brothers' College, Waverley, are to be welcomed at the college on Saturday at 3 o'clock. Pupils, ex-pupils, and friends are being invited through the Press to be present, as no formal invitations will be issued. The Governor will preside.

STATE BUTCHERS' SHOPS.

BRISBANE, Thursday.

In the Queensland Legislative Assembly Mr. Hunter, referring to the State retail butchers' shops, said the profits for the year had been £54,000. Efforts would be made to supply meat throughout Queensland, so far as the railway system would go, and for an area of five miles on each side of the line. This scheme would cost about £2,000,000. It would be necessary to increase the herds considerably. He believed the scheme would mean a considerable saving in the price of meat to the public in future.

A HOT DAY.

Sultry conditions ruled in Sydney and in the country yesterday. The maximum temperature was 90.1, which is the highest recorded since February 9. The record temperature for the month of October is 99.7, which was reached in 1898. Late in the afternoon the wind changed to south, and at 6.10 p.m. a velocity of 40 miles was reached. This caused the thermometer to fall rapidly, and at 9 p.m. the reading was 61.4.

A WEEK OF WAR.

BRITISH COUNTER-STROKE.

(BY ARTHUR MASON.)

LONDON, Aug. 11.

A dramatic surprise marked this week's war history. British forces advanced in strength in the early hours of Thursday morning, and swept a way through the Avre and Ancre positions which the great German advance of March last had given to the enemy, and by now the continued success of our arms has flung the enemy back across miles of country he believed to be safely behind him and in his own possession. Thus the scene of battle has changed from the Soissons-Reims area, within which the Allied forces gradually push the enemy backwards to the Aisne, and most of our attention is fixed, in these days, upon the fighting round about Montdidier and the possibilities in the Somme sector in general which that fighting suggests. Already it is fighting which has relieved Amiens and the Paris-Amiens railway lines. It has developed far from its initial stages. Begun by the British under General Rawlinson—with Australians well forward, and always energetic—the line of it has been extended by the entrance, farther south, of the Third French Army, under General Humbert, and the rapid advance of that army into positions towards Roye, which were lost to us in the March operations thereabout.

The news of these sudden and, so far, continuously successful strokes has made splendid week-end reading. They were quite unexpected strokes. The most that was hoped was a withdrawal of the German troops in this area, by reason of the retreat towards the Vesle and the Aisne farther east, but now we see an enemy reverse on the large scale—his initiative passed into Allied hands, his army commanders surprised, his troops in disordered retreat, tens of thousands of them captured, and hundreds of guns, and enormous quantities of stores and munitions, territory to the extent of miles of country, and many villages and valuable positions, taken from him and securely possessed by the Franco-British forces.

To date the effect of this fighting has been to push the enemy back to what are practically his old Somme positions—the positions, that is, held by him prior to the British thrust which sent him back to the Hindenburg line. He may yet go back there again; but at present his resistance has stiffened into a determined attempt to hold the all-important Lassigny sector, what time he straightens out as best he can the terrible confusion of his rearward roads of communication. To that end, of holding Roye and Lassigny, he has established himself strongly within his old defences on the ridges thereabout—positions I remember very well by virtue of a day spent within them and wanderings all about the disused trenches and the tangles of barbed wire which in other days had contributed to so much fierce fighting and so great a spilling of blood. Now, all that old Somme fighting seems to be beginning over again, and the formidable ridge of Lassigny once more is filled with the grim machinery of German defence, while French and British fight up the roads towards this place. The Chaulnes railway station would appear to be the key position hereabout, for Chaulnes is the supply base by means of which the enemy feeds his strong points about Roye and Lassigny—and Chaulnes is not yet taken. At the moment, indeed, there is a decided pause in the Allied offensive, the first smashing blows of which have done all they could do while, the German command has had time to hurry in reserves, and so consolidate the retreat into a formidable defence.

The Australians have had prominent place in the British line of advance. Its northernmost sector is, indeed, an area known to have been occupied by our forces, and the push which has impelled this part of the line out to Lihons and Hallu, at present its nearest point to Chaulnes, must have been very largely an Australian push. Its success has not always been so easily secured as at first, when on the Thursday morning of last week the enemy was completely surprised and the line swept on for six miles. There was never quite that ease, because there was never quite that order of surprise, in the fighting farther south, and by now this northern area of the Australian fighting is filled with stiff problems. Some of them, too, were encountered en route, for we read of difficult country, hidden nests of enemy machine-guns, and stubborn fighting at least by sections of the enemy troops. There is, for example, the marshy land of the valley of the Somme just there, land which gave the enemy every help in the matter of machine-gun concealments and ambushes. Bitter fighting, too, was that about Proyart, where the Australians met with much resistance from the machine-gunners hidden in the old French trenches thereabout. But though the fight for it was hard and long, our men took Proyart at last, and with it Mericourt and Cateau Wood, and so came to dominate the swamps which were the happy hunting ground of the German machine-gunners between Bray and Etinehem. These swamps were filled with old dugouts and trenches, as, indeed, was most of this terrain within which our men moved, and nests of enemy gunners were everywhere. Difficult progress, this, and calling at one stage for a crawl of a thousand yards along the ground because of the deadly machine-gun barrage. But the Australians played their part valiantly. They have taken some thousands of prisoners and many guns. The Haig advance of this week is, in fact, one of the best chapters in the great record of the Australian soldier.

The tanks are credited with wonderful work in this latest thrust at the enemy. The number of them in use is in itself a surprise of the first order. A thousand tanks, we are assured, headed the advance. At any rate, battalions of tanks went over, prodigious lines of them, before which the German troops fled in terror or surrendered helplessly. Mostly, no doubt, these were tanks of the improved type, tanks of speed as well as bulk, with many "whippets" among them, which went about crushing dugouts and machine-gun hiding-places, attacking transport and troops indiscriminately, and in all regards justifying the enthusiasm with which they are now universally praised by our soldiers. And with the tanks were the cavalry, who had much fighting, and some of it desperate. The splendid results of these three days of the attack lead us to hope for the best. Round about Noyon, Roye, and Lassigny the enemy can be but mildly pleased with his chance of holding off the Allies. Rearward he is in confusion, with his roads and railways under incessant bombardment, and his communications fighting through tangles of disorder. In Germany itself, we read, even his so long cherished illusions are under suspicion. This, without doubt, is a German retreat, and not a German advance. It has a sinister appearance. It has gravely disturbed the faith of the German people in their high command as invincible.

STATE INDUSTRIES.

TIMBER MILLS AND YARDS.

A large deputation which waited upon the Minister for Lands and Forests yesterday, which was accompanied by 14 members of Parliament, strongly attacked the policy of the State sawmills and timber yards. It was alleged that the Forestry Commission gave undue preference to the State sawmills, conducted by the commission, and the State timber yards by monopolising certain forest areas for their benefit; also that the State sawmills obtained undue preference on contracts from the railways and other public departments, and were charged a lower royalty. One speaker asserted that the belief existed in the trade that the design of the Forestry Commission was to wipe out all the private sawmills and control the whole industry. It was also stated that the competition of the State timber yards was unfair, and that its buyers had standing instructions to pay for local timbers sixpence over whatever price was offered by the retail timber merchants. A further complaint was made by different speakers regarding a case at Glenreagh, where the trade had been shut out of a forest on the ground that it was being reserved for the State sawmills to supply State requirements.

Mr. Jolly (Assistant Forestry Commissioner) explained that one block of timber had been reserved for the State timber yards on the condition that the timber was used solely for State purposes. Private millers had been denied access to the other timber by mistake on the part of the local officer, and this mistake had been rectified immediately it came to the knowledge of the commissioners.

Mr. Ashford said no special concessions were made to the State timber yards by the Forestry Commission. He had refused to make any concession. There were instances of steps being taken to conserve certain timbers for the Railway Department in the interests of the State. The State sawmills were subject to the same charges as private mills, and they were always prepared to go into the open market and tender. Tenders had been successful with the Railway, Irrigation, and Public Works departments because they had been the lowest. They had represented a saving of 14 per cent. to those departments as compared with the next lowest tender, and after allowing for all charges had shown a profit of 10½ per cent. to the mills. They did not want to come into competition with the trade otherwise, but wanted it to supply the business needs of the community.

GERMANY'S ANSWER

CONDITIONAL SURRENDER PREDICTED

It is reported that Germany will accept President Wilson's terms on condition that the interests of the German people are guaranteed.

Germany's reply is expected hourly. The odds at Lloyds are 6 to 4 against peace by the end of the year.

The Press Bureau is officially informed that reports published on Wednesday afternoon that Germany had capitulated are without foundation.

WHAT WILL GERMANY DO?

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.

The Hague correspondent of the "New York Times" telegraphs: "I can state authoritatively that Germany's answer to President Wilson will say she accepts his terms, provided Germany's interests and those of her people are guaranteed. Germany's answer to President Wilson is expected to-day (Wednesday)."

Reports received in Washington from Holland state that it is believed that Germany has offered to give up submarine warfare.

LONDON, Oct. 16.

An Amsterdam message says the German Federal Council has agreed to alter the constitution in order to make the Reichstag's assent necessary for a declaration of war and signature to peace.

Reports from Berlin, published in Amsterdam, state that Germany accepts President Wilson's conditions, provided assurances are given that German people's interests will be safeguarded.

The latest odds at Lloyds are 6 to 4 against peace by the end of the year, and 6 to 4 on peace by the end of March.

SENSATIONAL RUMOURS.

The "Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant" quotes a report from Hamburg stating that the German Emperor has renounced the throne, and that Germany is surrendering unconditionally.

London has been excited, the wildest rumours being afloat, but there is no official confirmation of the rumoured surrender of Germany or the abdication of the Emperor. There is much activity in Cabinet circles. It is understood Germany's reply is early expected in London.

EFFECT OF PRESIDENT'S NOTE.

The newspapers unanimously applaud President Wilson's Note, saying that it interprets with remarkable accuracy the mind of all the Allies. It is pointed out in some quarters that the absence of organisation and machinery for common Allied political action is analogous to the Versailles Council, and presents a danger which the enemy will attempt to exploit in order to divide the Allies. Difficulties to secure joint action are increased, owing to at present there being no American Ambassador in London, and no British Ambassador in Washington.

A message from Amsterdam says that President Wilson's reply created an intense impression in Germany. The papers point out it had the effect of a cold douche on the hopes of peace engendered by the first Note. Some newspapers comment in the sharpest terms, and say President Wilson's language has become excited. The Socialists, late on Tuesday, decided in view of the situation that Prince Max of Baden should continue as Chancellor. It is expected Prince Max will make a decision to-day in regard to President Wilson's latest Note. Owing to the obscurity of the situation, the Reichstag did not meet to-day.

PRINCE MAX EXPLAINS.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

The Berlin newspapers publish Prince Max's letter to Prince Hohenlohe, also Prince Max's explanation, declaring that he has always combated pan-Germanism and favoured the February, 1918, unambiguous declaration regarding Belgium; also a cleaner fulfilment of the Brest-Litovsk Peace treaty in the sense of right.

He adds that he favoured in 1917 equal suffrage, and his present democratic programme.

BRITAIN'S OBJECT.

WILL BE ATTAINED.

Mr. Asquith, speaking at the National Liberal Club, said: "Though the war is not ended, the enemy's resistance is broken. I may confidently say that our purposes will be attained. We have been delivered from the evils with which the world has been beset. The British navy's ceaseless vigilance has drained drop by drop the enemy's reservoir of power. The enemy's overtures are sincere in the sense that they come from a people who have given up the game. President Wilson's reply is exactly what is required. We must not imperil our ascendancy on sea or land, or give breathing time to an enemy who cannot be trusted to act honourably or humanely. We never intended to humiliate or destroy the German people. Our main objective was to destroy Prussian militarism. We must be sure the new Government is not the old dressed in a democratic garb.

THE LEINSTER ATROCITY.

The British Government possess proof that the submarine which sank the Leinster received instructions to destroy the Anglo-Irish passenger service after Prince Max of Baden had sent his first Peace Note to President Wilson. It is probable that President Wilson knew this when he sent his reply with reference to the enemy's atrocities.

Mr. Macnamara (Secretary to the Admiralty) stated in the House of Commons that the Leinster was not escorted because her speed was 23 knots.

MAY BE PUNISHED.

ILL-TREATMENT OF PRISONERS.

In the House of Lords, Lord Younger drew attention to official reports of Germany's treatment of prisoners. Lord Newton said that the Government agreed that prisoners were treated with incredible brutality. They had been anxious to avoid reprisals, but realised that they should take advantage of the changed military situation in order to improve the treatment of prisoners. A list of offenders had been kept, and he believed punishment could be enacted after the war. The Primate said he had been against reprisals, but in view of the official reports he was disposed to leave the Government the fullest freedom of action.

THE AMERICAN ARMY.

A message from Washington says the Military Deficiency Bill, providing for £1,200,000,000, has been reported to the House of Representatives. It is intended to finance the preliminary despatch of an army of 5,000,000 men to France in 1919. It is intended to keep 18 divisions ready overseas, and 18 divisions constantly training at home.

PALESTINE.

TURKS STILL SURRENDER.

An official communique from Palestine states: At the occupation of Beyrout on October 8 we took prisoner 60 Turkish officers and 600 men. Armoured car batteries entered Baalbek on October 9, and ascertained that 500 Turks had surrendered to the inhabitants. Our advanced cavalry and armoured cars occupied Tripoli and Homs without opposition.

MILITARY HONOURS.

The following military awards are announced:—

Bar to Military Cross.—Australians: Captain Victor Charlie Brown (Medical Corps), Lieutenants (Infantry), C. A. Auchterlonie, R. W. Sampson, and H. W. Scudds. New Zealand: Lieutenant B. T. McLure.

GENERAL BOTHA'S HEALTH.

CAPETOWN, Oct. 16.

A Pretoria message states that the possibility of peace pourparlers is a reminder that General Botha has often expressed a desire to be in Europe during the peace negotiations. As his health has much improved, it is believed that if there is a definite prospect of peace he may proceed to England. Meanwhile, all political parties are waking up to the chance of a comparatively early general election.

GERMAN LOOTERS.

A Paris telegram states that before clearing out of Roulers the Germans indulged in customary theft. Prisoners, with stolen property, said they acted under orders of their officers. Five officers were taken prisoners and handcuffed. When they demanded to see the British General, in order to protest, the General refused to receive them, saying he could have no dealings with officers who were thieves. The officers will be court-martialled.

TURKEY'S PLIGHT.

PRESSURE BY TEUTONS.

The Zurich correspondent of the "Daily News" says that owing to Young Turk intrigues and German menaces Tewfik Pasha and Isset Pasha have failed to form a cabinet.

The Sultan is determined not to restore the Young Turk regime. The latter and the Germans are trying to effect a Coalition Cabinet.

A miniature fleet of old Russian warships and merchantmen, manned by Germans, is lying outside Constantinople. The commander has semi-officially informed the Sultan the fleet will bombard the capital in the event of a separate peace being attempted.

It is pointed out in London that although Turkey approached America regarding peace, there has been no direct overtures, and the question of a reply from Britain does not arise. There is no doubt Germany has persuaded Turkey not to send a direct proposal.

TO DETACH AUSTRIA.

PRESIDENT'S DIPLOMACY.

The Washington correspondent of the "New York Times" says President Wilson's programme for dealing with the Central Powers contemplates driving a wedge between Austria and Germany. President Wilson regards Austria as the vassal of her German military masters; therefore the Note sent to Germany does not apply to Austria. President Wilson's reply to Austria is being held in abeyance, because it is expected that both Austria and Turkey will soon realise that their alliance with Germany will not bring them either political or military gain. Some authorities in Washington expect either a split between Austria and Germany, or the breaking up of the dual Monarchy of Austria-Hungary.

REVOLT IN PRAGUE.

Reports from Zurich state that Czecho-Slovak meetings, held in Prague, to protest against the exportation of food, caused a general strike, which degenerated into open revolt. The police were powerless and called in the troops, who barred the streets with machine guns. Prague is isolated.

POLES LOOK AHEAD.

A Zurich message says that the Austrian Polish deputies have decided never again to enter the Austrian Parliament, and have left for Warsaw.

TARIFF REFORM.

ADDRESS BY MR. HUGHES.

Mr. Hughes addressed a crowded and enthusiastic meeting of the Tariff Reform League in the Central Hall, Westminster, in connection with the Key Industries Exhibition. Sir Thomas Mackenzie (High Commissioner for New Zealand) presided. Sir Newton Moore, M.P., and leading tariff reformers being present.

Mr. Hughes said the Kaiser, fearing for his dynasty, was now hiding in the wings, and pushing Prince Max into the centre of the stage, but President Wilson had given Prince Max, the Kaiser, and his friends the answer they deserve. Germany's punishment must be such that no nation would dare to make a similar war again. There was something in the British spirit which was full of charm, but dangerous. That was the sporting spirit, which was willing to shake hands after the fight was won, and forget. "When Germany has paid the price of her bloody crimes," he said, "I will extend my hand—until then, no."

He went on to ask whether Britain was better prepared for peace than she was for war. He advocated a policy which would give their due to the millions of soldiers and munition workers who had tasted prosperity for the first time during the war, and utilise to the full the raw materials of the Empire. In this matter Australia wanted to know where she stood. If Britain were going to exercise her option upon Australia's raw materials she must say so. Australia was determined that her raw materials should not be allowed to lead to Germany's glorification.

Incidentally, he said that Merton's power had not gone because of their liquidation. "Let them seek what holes they like," he said. "I shall not leave them there."

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

Sir J. A. Simon, M.P., has returned to politics.

A Tokio message states that Japan has remitted the Boxer indemnity, in order to encourage friendly relations with China.

The Westminster Catholic Federation has established a club, which will be open to Australasian soldiers. It is under the control of Cardinal Bourne and Mr. Connolly (Agent-General for Western Australia).

General Griffiths, Director of Graves Registration, has informed Sir Thomas Mackenzie (High Commissioner for New Zealand) that the military cemetery in Armentieres has been recovered, and is practically undamaged.

The Appeal Court has reduced the sentence of four months' imprisonment, passed on George Heyl, in August last, for dealing in war material without a permit, to a fine of £200.

Mr. H. Y. Braddon, Commonwealth Commissioner, has arrived in New York.

FLANDERS.

THE ALLIED DRIVE.

12,000 PRISONERS.

BRITISH IN COURTRAI.

LONDON, Oct. 16.

The Allies on Tuesday night were within a mile of Thourout, and have reached Sante, south-west of Lille. The immediate capture of Lille is not anticipated.

Reports from Antwerp have reached Amsterdam which indicate that the Germans are about to send German ships from Antwerp to Holland for internment. There are further signs of the evacuation of the Ostend region.

The Commander of the German army at Antwerp has notified the Dutch authorities that 100,000 fugitives are going to Holland.

Mr. Philip Gibbs, special correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle," telegraphs: "The Anglo-Franco-Belgian attack has gained important successes along the whole line. It is interesting to note that the number of prisoners captured is almost equally divided between the three Allied armies, making 12,000 altogether. The British contribution of 2722 is exclusive of wounded prisoners. They also took 50 guns. The German machine-gunners in Roulers did not surrender until they were entirely cut off, when they were finally silenced. Old women and haggard, pale men in peasants' clothes came out of cellars, crying "We are saved."

The German prisoners seemed well-informed about recent events, their constant refrain being "we want peace." Prisoners are continually asking if an armistice is yet signed. They agreed the Emperor must go, and said "The Crown Prince does not count. We do not bother about him."

Owing to the unsuitability of the low, swampy ground hereabouts, the British are not using tanks, but the French tanks are doing great service. The combined attack already threatens the Germans in the coastal region between Nieuport and Ostend. They must hurriedly withdraw along a narrow corridor, otherwise the door will be slammed upon them. Towards the south our advance in the direction of Courtrai puts the enemy in the Lille neighbourhood into a deep pocket, while Douai is almost encircled.

THE COMMUNIQUES.

SIR DOUGLAS HAIG.

WEDNESDAY, NOON.

Our patrols slightly progressed at night on the Douai-Lille sector.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

In a successful local operation in the Selle Valley we captured Haussy, with 300 prisoners.

The enemy continues his withdrawal on the Douai-Lille front. We closely following, have reached the general line of Oignies, Carvin, Allennes Le St. Tarais, Maugre, and Capinghem. There was sharp fighting between the enemy's rearguards, and our advanced detachments. We took prisoners.

The second British Army, under General Plumer, co-operating with the French and Belgians, has advanced eight miles in the past three days. During this period, despite strong opposition, this army has captured Comines, Wervicq, Menin, Wevelghem, Heule, and Cuerney, and secured the northern portion of Courtrai. The left bank of the Lys is now cleared of the enemy to far north-eastward of Harlebeke. To-day we crossed the Lys between Armentieres and Menin. In the towns and villages captured by the Second Army many civilians were freed, and over 4000 prisoners and upwards of 150 guns taken.

Our airmen dropped 10 tons of bombs on railways and hostile centres.

FRENCH.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

We slightly progressed at night-time north of Sissone. North of Asfeld we checked a violent counter-attack, supported by numerous artillery. In the region of Stoerman Mont, south-west of Rethel, we captured the village of Acy.

GERMAN.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

WEDNESDAY.

The enemy penetrated beyond the Iseghem-Courtrai railway line. We withdrew somewhat westward, south-westward of Lille.

We evacuated a small salient position between Olizy and Grand Pre, along the Aisne, towards Mouron.

MR. HUGHES.

VISITS THE AUSTRALIANS.

Mr. Hughes stayed a night in Amiens and returned to London on Tuesday. Motoring en route to the coast, he visited two composite brigades resting in the Somme villages. He said the troops had richly earned a period of repose. He felt strongly that this period should not be short, and added: "I hope it will not be your lot again to draw the sword, but if occasion arises I know you will do it. Lately the tide of war has changed our way. Nobody, three months ago, dreamed we would be now standing on the threshold of victory. No troops have done more to bring about this amazing change in the fortunes of war during the black days when the German avalanche was sweeping towards Amiens and Paris. The Australians stopped and pushed back these armies, and showed not only that they did not fear the Germans, but despised them.

"The French Premier, M. Clemenceau, sends you a message. He regards you as the beau ideal of soldiers. France will never forget the greatness of your work for her. You have made Australia's name famous and world-wide. Although your battalions have been reduced to mere shadows, you will go back to Australia with the lasting satis*faction of* having done your duty in the hour of crisis. I hope the troops who show the possession of such qualities will make Australia great in peace time just as their valour and heroism made her great in war time. The people of Australia will show how much they admire your fortitude and sacrifice."

HONOURED BY FRANCE.

(COMMONWEALTH OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Oct. 14.

The Australian troops are pleased and proud at the singling out of Australian Prime Minister for the conferring of the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honour by the French President, who, in presenting it, congratulated Mr. Hughes on the great achievements of the Australians in France. No appreciation is more dear to the Australian soldier than from the French people, whose country they have been defending, and for whose courage in days of disaster every Australian has conceived the warmest admiration.

CONDITIONS IN LAON.

Mr. Perris, the war correspondent, writes:—It is incorrect to say the Germans took hostages from Laon during their retreat. Twenty-four inhabitants, including 12 women, were deported in January, and interned under the pretext that France had acted similarly in Alsace, but these were returned to Laon or repatriated to France in April, in accordance with the Berne agreement.

The Mayor of Laon was removed on Saturday, not as a hostage, but ostensibly to give an account of his stewardship to the American Relief Committee. It is evident the real reason for his removal was to prevent him speaking to his countrymen. Three hundred mobilisable men were also taken. The American Relief Committee alone prevented actual starvation in Laon.

AIR FIGHTING.

DARING AUSTRALIAN.

The English newspapers give prominence to a daring exploit by an Australian pilot, who attacked and secured a direct hit on a moving train. The rear portion broke loose, and overturned down an embankment. The pilot brought to a standstill the front portion of the train, pouring in 200 rounds. He also shot down a German scout, and, although wounded, beat off seven Fokkers, one breaking to pieces in the air. When his ammunition was exhausted the pilot fired Verey lights. On the way home he lost consciousness, owing to loss of blood, but recovered when a few yards from the ground over the British lines. He flattened out the machine by a tremendous effort, and landed safely.

MILITARY SITUATION.

HIGHLY FAVOURABLE.

Major-General Maurice, military correspondent of the "Daily News," writes: The military situation is extraordinarily favourable, but I do not see any immediate likelihood of another and greater Sedan. Sir Douglas Haig's victory on October 8 compelled the German withdrawal to the Hunding-Kriemhilde line, just as his victory on August 8 compelled the withdrawal to the Hindenburg line. The second retreat is not yet complete.

The Americans north of Verdun are breaching the Kriemhilde line, and the French at Sissonne are breaking into the Hunding line, while the British at Le Cateau and Solesmes are menacing the northern extension of the Hunding system, but on the whole the German withdrawal has been well carried out. There is no sign that his fighting spirit has been broken, though he has sensibly weakened.

The enemy's delaying actions, together with the utilisation of many railways, which are not shown on ordinary maps, make a Sedan a difficult accomplishment. Meanwhile, Marshal Foch's power of attacking everywhere is increasing daily.

It is reported from Washington that the Americans west of the Meuse are slowly cutting through the Kreimhilde line, after a savage battle. The French and Italians are co-operating. The French gains in the Rethel neighbourhood are notably assisting the American progress.

Mr. James, correspondent with the American army, cables that the Americans have driven deeper into the Kriemhilde line north of Verdun. They have captured St. Juvin (east of Grand Pre), and advanced beyond the second enemy lines.

THE BALKANS.

A French communique states: The Allies are continuing their advance towards Northern Servia. The Servians captured Veliko and Yestrebac Massif, and reached 20 kilometres northward of Nish, taking a large number of prisoners. In Albania the enemy is retiring upon Ipek.

ITALIAN PROGRESS.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

An Italian official communique states: In Albania we occupied Tirana.

SPANISH INFLUENZA.

CAPETOWN, Oct. 16.

A Johannesburg message states that the epidemic of Spanish influenza has taken a definite turn for the better, there being a great decrease in the number of cases. An organisation is now effectively coping with the disease.

A Kimberly message states that the improvement continues.

The mortality to date is 3300, 10 per cent. being Europeans.

SUNK BY COLLISION.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.

The Commonwealth and Dominion liner Port Philip, 4060 tons, was sunk in the harbour in a collision with a collier. No loss of life occurred.

The vessel may be raised.

SOUTH AFRICAN WOOL.

CAPETOWN, Oct. 16.

An important conference of wool farmers met at Pretoria this morning to consider the wool question, but owing to the influenza epidemic only a fourth of the intended delegates was present. Mr. Robertson, Administrator for the Transvaal, himself a big wool farmer, said the position was worse than last year. Tonnage was scarcer, and with half a million bales of the new clip coming in the market would be much worse, unless present stocks were moved to America. There was no buying, Japan taking very little. He hoped Congress had found a permanent organisation to deal with the question.

FEDERAL SESSION.

LABOUR AND THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

In the House of Representatives to-day the Minister for Price Fixing, Mr. Massy Greene, replying to a question by the leader of the Opposition, Mr. Tudor, said that the Federal advisory committee for the control of paper would include representatives of the employees. The daily newspaper proprietors would have one representative and the employees one. There would be separate panels in connection with the administration, the newspapers having one, and, if circumstances warranted, other branches of the trade would have them. The panels would simply act as advisory committees to the particular interests of the advisory board.

The Acting Prime Minister, Mr. Watt, in answer to a question by Mr. Rodgers (Vic.) said that steps were being taken to deal with the meat shipping problem. The difficulties, while not insuperable, were grave. Representations would be made to the Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, in London on the matter.

Mr. Matthews (Vic.) referred to the reports of peace that had been published recently, and inquired whether, as Australia would be represented at the peace conference, the Government would consider the advisability of allowing the Labour party to have representatives at that conference.

Mr. Watt: Before answering that question I must ask whether it has been propounded with the approval of the leader of the Opposition or of the party in the country for which he speaks.

Mr. Matthews: I put the question without consulting Mr. Tudor or anybody.

Mr. Watt: If the official Labour party of Australia propounded a proposal of that kind it would be considered by the Government.

The Acting Minister for the Navy (Mr. Poynton), replying to Dr. Maloney (Vic.), said that he had approved of the sale of the steamer Illaroo and her transfer from the Australian registry.

The debate was resumed on the second reading of the Post and Telegraph Rates Bill.

The leader of the Opposition (Mr. Tudor) classed the bill as another example of the unscientific taxation of the Government. Why were telephones, telegrams, and lettergrams not taxed?

Mr. Webster replied that the telephone branch was paying, but as regarded lettergrams members might be asked to support an amendment. The parcel post rates, he added, would not be increased.

Mr. Bruce Smith (N.S.W.) referred to the statement of unscientific taxation made by Mr. Tudor, and asked if it was not unscientific for 13,000 people to pay the whole of the land tax in the Commonwealth. He thought that the imposition of a tax on threepenny and sixpenny amusement admissions was an impolitic move on the part of the Government.

The bill was passed through the committee stage.

The bill was brought to the second reading stage.

The House adjourned at 10 p.m. till to-morrow.

In the Senate the Works Supply Bill went through all stages; and the bill relating to the establishment of the Institute of Science and Industry was further considered in committee.

Progress was reported.

The Senate then adjourned till to-morrow morning.

AMERICA AND AUSTRALIA.

TRADE RELATIONS.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Mr. S. B. Moomam, who left Melbourne to-day on his return to America, after spending some weeks in Australia on a special mission on behalf of the United States Department of Agriculture, has written as follows to the Prime Minister's Department:—

"I venture to hope that my reports upon your primary industries of live stock, meat, wool, slaughtering-houses, freezing works, stockyards, and general business connections and channels, will lead to an interesting trade development between us. Australia has made many profound impressions upon me, the foremost being its vast area, its tremendous development in so short a period, considering such a small percentage of its population are producers, the broadmindedness of its citizens, and its unfailing hospitality. I feel that the war has kindled a kindly spirit amongst all branches of the Anglo-Saxon family, and that it is the national duty of every serious man to see that this flame is kept alive, and from the cordial reception I have had everywhere I am hoping that in fulfilling my mission I have accomplished my share in this influence."

AUSTRALIANS ESCAPE.

STORIES OF CAPTIVITY.

Corporal C. Benson, of the 13th Battalion, formerly woolbuyer in the northern districts of New South Wales, escaped from Germany, and has arrived in England. He was taken prisoner near Riencourt in April, 1917, being wounded. He passed through Lille and Douai, and subsequently was compelled to do heavy work, unloading sand barges at Mortagne. Many of his comrades collapsed under the strain of the work and scarcity of food. Benson afterwards conducted parties of prisoners to the frontier for internment in Holland. During one of these journeys he succeeded in escaping.

Private F. J. Allen, of the 53rd Battalion, who enlisted at Gosford, and was formerly an engine-driver at Hornsby, was taken prisoner at Fleurbaix in July, 1916. He escaped, and has arrived in London. He spent almost the whole period of his captivity at Gladbeck, working at a timber mill. Accompanied by a Canadian and an Englishwoman, he walked a hundred kilometres before he reached safety in Holland. It is learned that three Australian non-commissioned officers have since escaped and arrived in Holland.

Private C. J. Mitchell, of the 53rd Battalion, who was repatriated and has arrived in London, belonged to Rockdale. He was made a prisoner at Fleurbaix, where he was wounded in the head and leg. He says he received considerate treatment from the German doctors. Subsequently he was compelled to work in a sugar factory, and later on railway construction at Bromberg. The prisoners at the latter place, including the Anglo-French and Russians, refused to work in a munition factory, although threatened with machine-guns. Mitchell attempted to escape from Stettin, and was punished with work in a lime quarry, under the unhealthiest of conditions and brutal gaolers. He contracted a poisoned foot, and was exchanged into Holland on May 7.

BRISBANE BEER STRIKE.

BRISBANE, Thursday.

The beer strike continues. The position existing at the Central Railway refreshment rooms in connection with the strike attracts much attention and comment. The railway refreshment bar, instead of being a convenience for railway travellers, has practically developed into an hotel conducted by the State at rates which are undercutting hotels connected with the Licensed Victuallers' Association.

RESTRICTED IMPORT.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The importation of ball bearings into the Commonwealth from other than British or Allied countries is prohibited unless the consent in writing of the Minister for Customs is obtained.

WAR BONUSES FOR SEAMEN.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Approval has been given for the payment of a bonus equivalent to 25 per cent. of wages to masters, officers, and members of the crew of vessels registered in Australia during the time they are in war zones, but excluding the time vessels are in port within that zone. The term "war zone" shall apply to the routes followed by such vessels when proceeding to and from a port on the Atlantic side of North America and Africa or in the United Kingdom, Continent of Europe, or on the Mediterranean coast of Africa, and shall commence or terminate in each case at the eastern end of the Panama Canal, the Cape of Good Hope, and the Suez Canal.

FIRE AT BALMAIN.

Shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning a fire, which originated in a weatherboard cottage occupied by Mr. T. Simmons, in Cove-street, Balmain, damaged three adjoining small weatherboard cottages. The brigades saved the front portions of the four cottages. The rear portions and part of the roofs were damaged by fire and water.

WAR NOTES.

ALLIED GAINS ON THE WEST.

Official communiques from various sources show that the Allied armies on the Western front are still pressing the enemy severely along considerable sections of his front, and making the best use of the initiative by allowing him little or no rest. The progress of the Americans on both sides of the Meuse is necessarily slow, as they are probably encountering here enemy reserves in greater force than at any other point along the line. They are also fighting in positions which have previously been specially prepared and strengthened. The French on their left have secured possession of a useful line of communication in the Vousieres-Grand Pre road, the value of which is not lessened by the fact that the enemy claims to have withdrawn his line on this side of the Argonne front. Away to the westward the French are still endeavouring, not without a certain amount of success, to force the enemy from the line of the Aisne in the vicinity of Rethel. The Germans have endeavoured to relieve the situation there by counter-attacking with heavy artillery support in the region northward of Asfeld. The capture of Acy by the French and their presence in the southern outskirts of Rethel show that the enemy's hold on the river line is far from secure. The complete capture of Rethel would probably give the French the whole of the northern bank of the river, and permit of an appreciable advance beyond it, as most of the principal roads leading to the northward pass through this town. The French have also made slight progress along the greater part of the front, northward of Laon, between the Aisne and the Serre.

THE FLANDERS OFFENSIVE

Sir Douglas Haig's late communique shows that the Anglo-Belgian offensive in Flanders is still meeting with pronounced success, and the bulge in the line between the enemy's extreme right on the coast and his front before Lille has become so great as to suggest that a readjustment of his front on the north, as well as on the south of this Allied salient, cannot be delayed much longer. Up to the present he has been content to effect his withdrawals on the southern side, but this policy cannot be continued much longer without entirely uncovering the important industrial centres of Lille, Tourcoing, and Roubaix. Sir Douglas Haig's statement that the left bank of the Lys is now clear of the enemy as far as north-eastward of Harlebeke means that the Allies on this portion of the front have now reached a point 17 miles due eastward of the most advanced point of the old Ypres salient. At the time of writing there is no confirmation of the statement that the Belgian cavalry is within a mile of Thielt, which is 20 miles north-east of the 1916 front, eastward of Ypres. There is no doubt, however, that the Allied drive in Flanders has been both wide and deep, and that it has already seriously affected other portions of the enemy's front. It is due to the pressure here, as well as to the recent British crossing of the waterway near Pont-a-Vendin, that the enemy has fallen back from a considerable section of the Haute Deule Canal, in the region between Lille and Lens.

AIM OF ALLIED STRATEGY.

Major-General Maurice, while admitting the extraordinarily favourable nature of the military situation, expresses a warning against over-confidence, and advises us not to expect another and a greater Sedan. This advice is undoubtedly sound. In attempting to gauge the significance of the present position on the Western front we cannot ignore the nature of the enemy's resistance, the orderly manner of his recent withdrawals, and the undoubted skill and generalship of his leaders. We are inclined to regard his repeated efforts to obtain peace as conclusive proof of the imminent danger of his military position. While these efforts have been the direct outcome of his recent military reverses and of his inability to achieve decisive victory in the field, they are not necessarily an admission that his military defeat has been accomplished. It is wise, therefore, that we should be warned against expecting that a serious military disaster is about to overtake the German armies. It is true, as he states, that "delaying actions and the utilisation of many railways not shown on ordinary maps make a Sedan difficult of accomplishment." At the same time, in order to appreciate the aims of the Allied strategy, the railways in the enemy's rear must command the attention of everyone who desires to follow the various movements reported on the Western front. While new railways, not shown on other than staff maps, have been constructed during the war, the old trunk lines have not lost their earlier importance. Railways constructed in peace times necessarily follow the most suitable routes, pass through the large cities, are amply provided with transport facilities, sidings, workshops, and depots of all sorts, and cannot be entirely replaced by strategical lines constructed during the progress of hostilities. While the task of cutting these lines and enveloping the enemy's armies must be most difficult as long as his fighting forces remain efficient, it may be possible to bring about a considerable congestion of his forces. Under modern conditions, and with the attackers possessing a measure of supremacy in the air, the retreat of large armies through a comparatively narrow passage-way may prove almost as disastrous as a Sedan. At present Marshal Foch appears to be directing his efforts towards the attainment of this objective on the West, and its achievement will probably depend upon the strength of the defensive lines towards which the enemy has withdrawn.

ADVANCES IN THE NEAR EAST.

This morning's news from the Near East shows that the Allies are maintaining their rapid progress in the Balkans and in Syria. Apparently the enemy has not yet been able to rush down forces in sufficient strength to hold up the Servian advance along the main railway. The Servians have accordingly penetrated over twelve miles beyond Nish, after capturing difficult heights to the westward of the railway. The retreat of the Austrian forces in Albania appears to be proceeding at a rapid rate, the danger of envelopment by the Allied forces moving westward from Servian territory having become too serious to permit of delay on the part of the enemy. A French Eastern communique states that these forces are retiring upon Ipek, situated in the south-eastern corner of Montenegro. Even if they succeed in reaching this town they will still be threatened by the Allied forces which have reached Mitrovitza, a little over thirty miles to the north-eastward. An advance westward of Mitrovitza, along the valley of the Ibar, would bring the Allies astride the roads above Ipek. It will, therefore, be difficult to say where the retirement of these Austrian forces in Albania will cease, as long as the enemy fails to hold up the Allies' progress into Servia. The enemy's left flank in Albania has been turned by the collapse of the Bulgarian armies, and as long as the Central Powers fail to establish something like a connected defensive front in Servia, this left flank in Albania must continue to be in air, and the Austrian forces there must continue to retire in order to avoid envelopment. In Syria the Allies have secured another port at Tripoli, about forty miles to the northward of Beyrout, and have also pressed northward along the railway above Damascus as far as Homs, which is about 110 miles from Aleppo. Homs is situated a little over fifty miles north-east of Tripoli, and a branch railway connected the two places before the war, but this is believed to have since been taken up in order to provide material for railway construction elsewhere. The next town of importance on the railway leading to Aleppo is Hama, and the Allies will have to cross the river Orontes before entering this place.

INTERNEES' DEPENDENTS.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

A War Precautions Regulation issued to-day provides that wives of internees who are in destitute circumstances may be paid a weekly allowance of 12/6, and 2/6 per week for each child under 14 years of age. In special cases, such rates as the Minister approves.

STATE PARLIAMENT.

INCOME TAX COLLECTION.

IRRIGATION ACT AMENDMENT.

Progress was made by the Government with several small bills in the Legislative Assembly last night. The Sedition Bill was passed and sent on to the Upper House, the Opposition insisting upon party divisions at every stage of the procedure, including the formal message to the Legislative Council, asking it to receive the bill.

Mr. Manning asked whether, in view of the number of vaccines on the market to prevent anthrax, he would take into consideration the advisableness of instructing professional officers to carry out an independent examination with a view to cancelling the license for any vaccine which might prove unreliable or ineffective.

The Minister for Agriculture: "I will have inquiries made to see what power we have."

The Minister for Lands informed Mr. G. McGirr that in settling returned soldiers upon the land the policy of resuming for mixed farming would be continued, and grazing propositions would be regarded just as favourably if relatively as cheap.

The Chief Secretary, Mr. Fuller, answering Mr. Dooley, said the police force was short of men. Men able to go to the front were not being accepted for the police force.

The Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Grahame, told Mr. G. McGirr that if the Government could be shown a way to finance the project it would willingly extend the advance of £2 per ton on hay stacks to stacks exceeding 20 tons.

The Bills of Sale Bill and the Permanent Trustee Company's Bill were received from the Legislative Council and read a first time. The second readings were fixed for Tuesday next.

The Crown Lands Leases Withdrawal Bill was read the third time and transmitted to the Legislative Council.

INCOME SUPER-TAX.

The bill re-enacting the income super-tax of 3d in the pound was passed through the second reading and committee stages, and the third reading made an order for next sitting day.

INCOME TAX COLLECTION.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, Assistant Treasurer, introduced an Income Tax Management (Amendment) Bill. The purpose of the bill is to provide that State income tax returns should be furnished at the same time as the Federal returns. The State would adhere, he said, to its present form of return, but would require it to be sent in simultaneously with the returns for the Federal Government. It was also proposed by the bill to grant certain deductions which were allowed in the Federal system, and to allow exemptions to Starr-Bowkett societies and others. It was also proposed to vest the whole management of the tax in one commissioner instead of three, as at present.

The bill was read the first time, and the second reading fixed for Tuesday next.

IRRIGATION (AMENDMENT) BILL.

Moving the second reading of the Irrigation (Amendment) Bill, the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Grahame, said the measure was intended to remedy anomalies that had been revealed in the two and a half years' operation of the current legislation. The changes proposed included the redesigning of the areas in the Yanco and other schemes, in order to ensure each man having a living area. Acting upon the recommendations of Judge Bevan the Government had paid compensations amounting to £30,000, and there were now only four claims outstanding. Power was also sought in the bill to supervise irrigation plants along the rivers of the State, as the number was rapidly increasing.

The second reading was carried on the voices, and the bill formally taken into committee.

WOOLLAHRA LOAN BILL.

The Woollahra Loan Bill was recommitted to reconsider clauses two and three.

Colonel Macarthur-Onslow said that, owing to force of circumstances, he withdrew his opposition to the bill. The opposition of his constituents to the principle of the bill and the inequity which it contained was as strong as ever. But if the bill were not agreed to necessary work would not be carried out.

The clauses were agreed to. An amendment was made to clause 4, providing that the council may, in any year, transfer any surplus from the general works loan fund to the loan fund for Bellevue Ward, created by the bill. The Minister explained that the object was to refund to the contemplated work an excess of money contributed by Bellevue Ward to works in other wards.

Progress was reported, and at 10.30 p.m. the House adjourned until 4.30 p.m. on Tuesday next.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

The following bills were passed and sent to the Legislative Assembly:—The Perpetual Trustee Company (Ltd.) Amendment Bill, Permanent Trustee Company of New South Wales (Ltd.) Amendment Bill, Bills of Sale Discharge Amending Bill. Each of these measures was passed and sent to the Legislative Assembly.

The Sedition Bill was received from the Legislative Assembly and read a first time. The second reading was fixed for Wednesday next.

At 5.35 p.m. the Council adjourned till 4.30 p.m. on Wednesday next.

RECRUITING.

Mr. Orchard, Minister for Recruiting, who arrived from Melbourne yesterday, was emphatic in his statements with regard to the necessity for continuing recruiting activities, including the voluntary ballot enlistment scheme.

"We must not think of easing up for one moment," said Mr. Orchard, "until Germany has given evidence of good faith by absolute surrender. The soldiers of the Allies fighting at the front are taking no risks. They do not slacken off because of peace overtures. Rather do they fight with renewed vigor and increased determination. We are going full steam ahead with our recruiting ship. The signals to 'stop' and 'go astern' will not be sounded until the German flag is hauled down."

ANZACS.

WELCOMED BY CHEERING CROWDS.

EXCITING SCENES IN CITY.

It is a coincidence that the first formal welcome to our returning soldiers should have occurred within a few hours of the fourth anniversary of the departure of our first young battalions—they who went away to win imperishable fame on Gallipoli.

There must have been many yesterday among the hundreds who carried the coveted "A" on their weather-beaten battalion colours, who thought of that other spring day—October 19—when Australia's untried forces set off on the Great Adventure. The tragic Gallipoli campaign is becoming, to the mass of people, little more than a poignant memory, but yesterday's march of veterans revived it. Those who watched could see in the proud-held head, the free-and-easy carriage, the quaint, mischievous, fearless glance of the Australian veterans, the characteristics which distinguished the raw recruits who marched gaily to the transports in 1914. Many bore the outward and visible signs of war, few were without marks of suffering and strain; but there was no doubt that they were the men of the early battalions.

It was easy to see that, in the minds of both veterans and onlookers, there were many thoughts of the men who will never come back—brave lads who gave their lives, freely and unflinchingly, that Australia might remain a free nation. The spectators showed no favours. The four V.Cs., in the place of honour, received great roars of cheering; the fact that they had won one of the world's greatest awards for bravery made some appeal to the popular imagination. But to the long line of careless, cheerful "diggers" behind, men who had known the extremes of suffering and of glory, who had set, for later battalions to follow, a standard that has made the name of Australia ring throughout the world—to these there went out the homage of the crowds.

There will be many more welcomes to returned soldiers, but yesterday's function showed that our men need not fear the ordeal—that Sydney is delighted to greet and do honour to her fighters.

PROCESSION AND STREET SCENES.

Better weather conditions could not have been desired than those under which the returned Anzacs assembled in the Domain shortly after 10 o'clock for the procession. There were between 600 and 700 returned soldiers with "A" on their shoulders and about 60 furlough men. A few of the men in the ranks were in civilian dress. So smartly were the men drawn up by Captain Taylor, M.C. (staff officer for invalids and returned soldiers), and Colonel J. Travers that the procession left the Domain at a quarter to 11. While the bands played thousands of men, women, and children commenced the cheering, which was continued without a break until the enthusiasm culminated in the roaring reception at the Town Hall. Presented by the Millions Club to the military authorities, the Anzac flag of blue and gold, with "A" in the centre, was unfurled, and carried for the first time by "the boys of the Dardanelles." A more "seizing" effect was produced by having in the procession two Austrian guns, which had been captured from the Turks by the Australian Light Horse in Palestine.

The "Original Anzacs" on special leave in Australia, who returned to Sydney on Sunday last were Lieutenant Leonard Keysor, V.C., Lieutenant G. R. Nash, Lieutenant C. A. Osgood, Sergt. T. J. Brennan, M.M., Sergt. P. J. Birnie, L.-sergt. W. B. Bryan, Sergt. J. Buchan, B.Q.M.S. J. Cable, Pte. E. Carl, Pte. J. H. Cooper, Gnr. W. J. Cooper, Gnr. T. Crocker, L.-cpl. D. F. Davies, Pte. H. Dean, Sergt.-dmr. C. E. Downes, Pte. G. Fishlock, L.-cpl. J. Howie, Pte. G. Jones, T.-cpl. C. G. Kahle, Dvr. H. Last, F.-sergt. J. Longmore, Sergt. A. C. M'Innes, L.-sergt. M. M'Naught, Sergt. J. Ormsby, Pte. E. F. Rosberg, Pte. S. J. Samson, L.-cpl. K. Schneider, C.Q.M.S. B. J. Shakespeare, L.-cpl. J. Smith, Pte. S. G. Smith, Pte. F. Thurgood, Sergt. F. Wheal, Pte. A. S. Wilkinson, Pte. L. D. Wright, and Pte. R. Wright. About 30 other Anzacs who are on furlough walked with these men.

Although not an Anzac Corporal Bede Kenny, V.C., whose three years of active service were spent in France, had a place of honour in the procession. He accompanied Lieut. Leonard Keysor, V.C., who won his Cross during the Gallipoli campaign. Two other Victoria Cross heroes, Sergeant Howell and Private Jackson, were also in the procession.

Mounted police and a military band headed the procession. Light Horsemen added to the picturesqueness of the pageant. The Lord Mayor's carriage was drawn by six black horses lent by the military, and members of the City Council followed in motor cars. Gorgeous in his full robes, and wearing his "state hat," the Lord Mayor had the Chief Secretary (Mr. Fuller) with him, as the representative of the Ministry, when he left the Domain. In Hunter-street the Minister for Recruiting (Mr. Orchard) was given a seat in the carriage, and he was thus enabled to witness the striking scenes in Pitt-street, Martin-place, and George-street, and the enthusiastic reception of the Anzacs at the Town Hall.

From the Domain gates near St. Mary's Cathedral to the statue of Queen Victoria at the top of King-street hundreds of schoolboys and school-girls cheered as they know how to cheer. In the demonstration at this point the Grammar School boys, the High School girls from Elizabeth-street, the pupils from the William-street Public School, and the boys and girls from St. Mary's Cathedral schools joined forces. At other points along the route there were college and High School "strong posts," including one by the students of the Christian Brothers' College, Waverley, in honour of Corporal Bede Kenny.

The Liverpool Headquarters Band and the District Guard Band played the Anzacs through the streets. At times the cheering of the crowd drowned the martial music.

The scene in Martin-place was the most brilliant of a memorable day. Flags of the Allies were lavishly used for decorative purposes. Nearly all the men who had fought for the British Empire saluted the flags—France, Belgium, Italy, and the United States—while the immense assemblage cheered with the greatest enthusiasm. Choirs sang patriotic songs, and the men in khaki were pelted with flowers.

CITIZENS' RECEPTION.

AT THE TOWN HALL.

The Town Hall has never held a larger or more enthusiastic assemblage. The building was crowded with the Anzacs, their fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers, and sweethearts. On the platforms, in addition to Lieutenant Keysor, V.C., and Corporal Kenny, V.C., who were cheered time and again, were forty original Anzacs, who are back on furlough. Mr. R. H. Bartleman sang "The Toast is Anzac, Gentlemen" (words by Dr. C. H. Soutar, of Adelaide, and music by Dr. C. W. MacCarthy, of Sydney).

The Lord Mayor (Alderman Joynton Smith), in extending a hearty welcome, said that four dark years had passed since the Australian boys went away to fight for liberty and freedom. For all time the people would remember what the Anzacs had done. (Applause.) They had on the platform Lady Monash, wife of Sir John Monash, the hero of Messines. (Applause.) Four hundred thousand men had gone away from Australia—practically one in every twelve free men had left Australia to fight for a free country. Victory was approaching on the distant horizon. (Applause.) The four dark years of war were also brave years, because they had shown to the world the unconquered and unconquerable soul of Britain. (Applause.)

FOUGHT OUR FIGHT.

"Anzacs and others, old soldiers and good comrades all," said the Governor, Sir Walter Davidson, "when you went at the first call of the trumpet you may have gone for divers reasons—some for adventure, some for the weightier reasons of principle, but all sprang to the call at the first opportunity. These are the men we honour most to-day, and to whom I would offer my praise and deep, sincere thanks, because they represented Australia in the free league of nations, and made Australia's name. So long as nationality exists, so long will men like you be remembered as the bulwark for the safety and freedom of Australia. Those who survive and return will be heroes in generations to come, when men like us will be forgotten. Their medals will be the most prized heirlooms for all time. Their tattered uniforms will be cherished and laid by, even when the anniversaries of the great war are hushed, and the brave souls who wore them have gone to their eternal rest. There are those of your comrades at the landing and at Lone Pine who have laid down their lives and whom we cannot welcome, but whom I would praise, praise, praise. (Applause.) Those are the men, the brave men, who found that life was really not worth having if measured by length of years, but that the life worth while is the life of deeds—deeds done by men for their nation and the pride of their race. We pray for those men, and we praise them with all our heart. Those who depended upon them shall never want. (Applause.) And there are those who have returned with their wounds, some of them disabled for life, but who bear those wounds as gages of honour. The V.C. is the most cherished guerdon of all. It comes to but few. Hence its value; but it is earned by thousands who have well deserved it. (Applause.) I have an honour. I have earned it after long years of work in the public service, but I would change it gladly with any of you to hold the Military Medal. (Applause.) I know of a man, a temporary lieutenant-colonel, who has two bars to his D.S.O., gained in the Mons retreat. Then there is a brigadier-general—the only general who has earned the V.C. on the stricken field when holding the rank of brigadier. Those men are my friends. . . . . . When I was in search of material in writing the history of my own regiment in Newfoundland I always found some great deed done by Australia at Messines, Pozieres, Passchendaele, Hamel, and Villers-Brettoneux. (Applause.) In mid-April last the Australians were among the troops who stemmed the great onrush of Germans who were to have got to the Channel. (Applause.) These are the men who dared to shed their blood for us, and fought our fight to keep us safe from harm." (Applause.)

MARCHING TO VICTORY.

Mr. Orchard (Minister for Recruiting) said the boys had played their part, and played it well. Many of those present would not be in the final act of the drama, but all the same the country was deeply grateful to them for the splendid work they had done in preventing the Allied countries being under the thraldom of the Huns. (Applause.) The war news looked good—in the language of the trenches it looked as if the Germans were going to get a great big "...." (Great laughter.) And we were not going to be taken in by her confidence tricks. We understood her, and we understood her ways, and realised that the shortest way to victory was to pour in troops to France. Australia had to send men to reinforce her gallant men over there. (Applause.) Numerically Australia did not compare with the rest of the big Allies in the great fight, but her men had done wonders, and Australia should continue in her efforts to send men to accompany those lads in their triumphant entry into Berlin. (Applause.)

SAVED FROM DISHONOUR.

Mr. Fuller (Chief Secretary) said that, as an Australian native, he was proud of the gallant deeds performed by the Anzacs. (Applause.) Proud as were the Anzacs of the Australian flag he was sure they looked even higher, and wished to see that grand old flag of the Empire, the Union Jack, victorious for all time. (Loud and prolonged applause.) As M. Clemenceau (Premier of France) had said of the Australians—they knew they could fight, but did not imagine they would astonish a whole continent by their valour. (Applause.) They could see the dawn of victory. Thanks to the Anzacs, the hearths and homes of Australia had been safe, their women had been saved from dishonour, and the lives of their little children had been preserved. (Applause.)

Cheers were given for the King and Empire, the boys at the front, the Governor and Lady Davidson, Lady Monash, and Mr. Neil M'Court, a 97-year-old veteran.

Subsequently the Anzacs were entertained at luncheon by the Lord Mayor in the basement of the Town Hall.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

The Lord Mayor yesterday received a telegram, intimating that their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson regretted their inability to be present in the Town Hall to welcome home returning V.C.'s and Anzacs, but hoped to have another opportunity to do so. At the same time their Excellencies desired to convey to the guests of honour their greetings and congratulations on the splendid service rendered to King and country. A telegram was also received from the Acting Prime Minister (Mr. Watt), regretting that he was unable to leave Melbourne at present.

FUNERAL OF BISHOP STONE-WIGG.

The funeral of the late Bishop Stone-Wigg, whose death occurred on Wednesday morning, took place yesterday, the place of interment being St. Thomas's Churchyard, Enfield. Prior to the burial a funeral service was held at St. Paul's Church, Burwood. This was conducted by the Rev. H. Bryant (rector of that church), Rev. Clive Statham, and Rev. E. H. Lea. In addition to the large gathering of Anglican clergymen there were present the Bishop of Armidale, the Bishop of Goulburn, Bishop Pain, Archdeacon D'Arcy Irvine (the latter representing the Archbishop of Sydney), Archdeacon Pritchard, Archdeacon Davies (principal of Moore Theological College), Mr. H. S. P. Storey (representing the Bishop of Kalgoorlie), Rev. W. G. Bromilow, D.D. (who was head of the Methodist Mission in New Guinea when Bishop Stone-Wigg was head of the Anglican Mission there), Messrs. Arthur Yates (president of the Children's Home, Burwood), Sir John Russell French, the directors and secretary of the Church Publishing Company, the rector and clergy of St. James's, Sydney, sisters of the Church of St. Gabriel, Waverley, representatives of the Children's State Department, and a number of leading citizens. The boys of St. Paul's Day School and children from the Burwood homes also attended the service, the address at which was delivered by the Rev. E. H. Lea, who was chaplain at the occasion of Bishop Stone-Wigg's consecration 20 years ago at St. Andrew's Cathedral. Mr. Lea said that deceased had been one of the most striking missioners in the Anglican Church, working not for the seen but for the unseen. His works would be far better estimated in the days to come than they could now. One only had to think of the sisterhood movement which he started in Brisbane, his 10 years' work in New Guinea, his love for the work at the Children's Home, Burwood, and his active interest in the "Church Standard," to realise that he had been one of the most faithful sons of the Church of England—a man with the widest sympathies, and of thoroughly sane judgment. At the close of the service the Dead March was played. The service at the graveside was conducted by Rev. P. A. Micklem (St. James's, Sydney), Rev. H. Bryant (St. Paul's, Burwood), the Bishop of Goulburn pronouncing the Benediction. Many wreaths and floral tributes were placed on the grave, the principal ones being those given by the girls' and boys' homes, the directors of the Church Publishing Company, and the choirs of St. Paul's and St. James's churches.

FINANCIAL.

TAXATION OF PUBLIC DEBT INTEREST.

In the course of his Budget speech Mr. Watt, the Federal Treasurer, said that although the present loan had been made subject to the Commonwealth taxation, owing to constitutional difficulty the loan would be free of State income tax. The Treasurer had in view the delays which would occur in consequence of the difficulties of making reciprocal arrangements with the States as he proceeded. "It would, no doubt, be possible for the Commonwealth and States to agree that the loan issues of each shall be subject to the taxation of both, but arrangements have not proceeded so far as that. There are some dangers in permitting a State to tax a loan of the Commonwealth, and it would probably be necessary to provide that the State should not tax interest on Commonwealth loans at a greater rate than the tax upon incomes of similar amounts from other sources. In any case, no action could safely be taken until reciprocal legislation had been passed by all the States and the Commonwealth." When Mr. Watt alluded to the necessity of ensuring safety, he spoke from painful experience. The Commonwealth, when it was declared illegal for the State to tax salaries of Commonwealth officers, passed an Act legalising such taxation. At that time there was no Commonwealth income tax; but when, in 1915, a Commonwealth income tax was instituted, the matter of reciprocity in the taxing of State servants arose. At varying intervals in the last three years one or other of the States has passed legislation enabling the Commonwealth to tax the salaries of State servants. New South Wales was the most dilatory of all. Its Act was passed only a few days ago, and even so, the Commonwealth taxation of the salaries of its public servants has been put off for another year, since the Act refers expressly to salaries of the year commencing July 1, 1918, which, of course, will not be assessed for tax till some time in the latter half of 1919 or the beginning of 1920.

COMPULSORY WAR LOAN.

Mr. G. A. Jones writes, pointing out that the compulsion of subscription to the war loan may work unjustly in the case of those who, in order to subscribe to past war loans larger sums than their immediate income would justify, mortgaged their income many months ahead. He continues:—

> Take the case of a man who in the last loan, having previously locked up all his spare money, took advantage of the generosity of the banks, and subscribed £100 on the basis of a monthly payment of £5/6/, or, roughly, 25/ per week for 18 months. With a stationary income that man cannot possibly undertake further payments. It is not, however, my intent to simply squeal. I am writing to offer a suggestion, viz., that instead of calling on such to make immediate payments for a further loan, they should be given the chance of offering to continue the monthly payments until after the period when it will not be necessary to get further money. As that is my position, I am prepared to continue paying £5/6/ per month, and I have no doubt many others also are prepared to do the same. This appears to me to be one way out of the difficulty, and I trust others will follow the lead, and see if such a proposal will lead Mr. Watt to relent in his determination to apply indiscriminately his powers of compulsion.

The suggestion is worth considering. The bill provides that where compulsion is resorted to subscriptions to past loans will be taken into consideration.

BELLAMBI COAL.

The report of the Bellambi Coal Company covers the year ended August 31. After making provision for depreciation and increasing the reserve fund to £11,150 (making that fund £100,000), the profit for the year amounted to £31,486, and, with £9501 brought forward, £40,988 was available. An interim dividend of 6d per share, paid on April 11, accounted for £10,000, and the directors recommended a final dividend of 1/ per share, absorbing £20,000, leaving £10,988 to be carried forward. The dividend is at the rate of 7½ per cent. for the year. The company's holdings in the war loans at the end of its year totalled £100,000; and various patriotic funds had also been subscribed to. The paid-up capital is £400,000, and money owing on open accounts £30,919. Collieries and plant are valued at £255,221, and, besides Commonwealth war loan mentioned above, there are holdings of British war loan £19,950, Government and municipal stocks and debentures, and other debentures amounting to £143,710.

RESTRICTING RUBBER.

Our cables tell us of means being taken in Great Britain to curtail importation of rubber. In the United States the same object is effected by curtailing the use of rubber. Importations have been restricted in the United States to 100,000 tons this year, whereas in 1917 160,000 tons was used, and more than twice that quantity could be used this year if supplies were available. The Guaranty Trust Company of New York learns that the American War Industries Board informed all branches of the rubber industry that unless the use of crude rubber in the manufacture of pneumatic tyres for pleasure automobiles was reduced by at least one half during August and September, and its use in making other articles non-essential to war curtailed, the War Industries Board would use its authority to keep rubber manufactures within the scope of tonnage allotments. This information had a considerable effect on rubber shares.

REFINING PETROLEUM IN AUSTRALIA.

The Anglo-Persian Oil Company has made an offer, the second, to the Government of Australia, for the erection of a large refinery. The first offer was made very early this year to construct refineries in Australia for the treatment of Australian mineral oil if and when obtained. The later offer (writes the oil expert of the "Financier") concerns crude oil from the company's oilfields in Persia. Kerosene is admitted duty free into Australia, but there is a duty on petrol and other refined oils and on mineral lubricating oils. Probably the company has asked for still heavier duties on these commodities, together with a duty on kerosene, and the free admission of crude petroleum as part of its terms. The Anglo-Persian Company's proposals give the Government the choice of three courses:—(a) For the Government to finance the scheme; (b) for the Government and the company to act in conjunction; (c) for the company to conduct the enterprise entirely with its own capital. It is stated that the company, which is under the control of the Imperial Government, is willing to finance the venture to the extent of £1,000,000.

COMPANY NEWS.

The directors of the Australian Distillery Company, Ltd., have decided to issue an additional 25,000 shares of £1 each, thereby raising the subscribed capital to £125,000. The terms of issue are:—5/ per share on application, not later than November 1; and 15/ per share, to be paid in one sum on or before March 31. Any dividends that may be declared will accrue on application fees paid as from November 1, and on the subsequent payment from the first of any month following. The new shares, pro rata, to those on the register would work out at 25 for each 100 held.

The report of the South British Insurance Company shows a surplus of £82,346 in the underwriting account, and an income from interest and rents amounting to £51,928, making a total of £134,274. A dividend (including interim dividend) of 5/ per share absorbs £50,000, there is placed to reserve £50,000, to reduction of premises £25,000, to officers' provident and superannuation funds £5156, and to sinking funds of leaseholds £425, leaving, with £53,908 brought into the account, a sum of £57,601 to be carried to the new account.

W. W. Campbell and Co., Ltd., have decided to increase the capital of the company to £50,000 by means of 25,000 new shares of £1 each, 6000 being preferential shares.

The following companies have been registered:—

Potts, C. J., and Co., Ltd., capital of £15,000, in shares of £1 each, to acquire the business now carried on by C. J. Potts and Co., grain merchants, etc. First directors, Messrs. C. J. Potts and A. E. Potts.

Accumulators, Ltd., capital of £5000, in shares of £1 each, to carry on the business of electrical engineers, etc. First directors, Messrs. W. N. Caton, T. C. Allen, W. R. Wilkins, and A. McAlister.

THE MARKETS.

There was a fair amount of inquiry for tinned fish, particularly salmon. Red Alaska fish was scarce, and was quoted at from 16/9 to 17/3. Pinks were firm at 3/6 for halves and 15/ for talls. Stocks of sardines were not so heavy, and prices were well maintained. Sales of Kensett oysters were made at 10/6. There was a steady inquiry for American herrings. Fresh herrings were quoted at 11/6, kippered at 14/6, and herrings in tomato sauce at 12/. Tinned meats generally were quiet. Sheeps' tongues brought from 22/6 to 24/6. Some brands of potted meats were practically unobtainable. There was a good demand for evaporated fruits. Currants, lexias, and sultanas were offered at the opening rates of the season. The better grades of currants were very scarce. Prunes were better property, and commanded from 11d. Tinned fruits moved out freely, and stocks appeared ample for all requirements. The announcement that jam would shortly be packed in 2lb tins only caused a run on 1lb tins. The position of matches was not so strong. Australian wax vestas were more plentiful, and were to be had at from 5/6 to 5/9. Quotations for Japanese "safeties" ranged from 5/6. Some recent shipments cost in the region of 6/ duty paid. Owing to the shortage of tins, boot polish manufacturers were experiencing great difficulty in filling their orders, and some Victorian brands were practically unobtainable. Some of the lower grades of soaps were cheaper.

Oils were quiet. Castor oil was again offered at 9/6, and Japanese cottonseed oil was to be had at 10/. Sales of China oil were made at from 11/ to 11/6. There was a steady increase for linseed oil and turpentine at unaltered levels. Red lead was nominally quoted at £112 a ton.

The jute market was quiet. Branbags were worth 12/, cornsacks 10/1, and woolpacks 6/ net to rails.

JAM TINS.

The consent of the Director of Munitions has first to be obtained before tinplates may be used for the manufacture of containers for packing jam in quantities less than 27 ounces.

EGGS DEARER.

After remaining at the same level for many days, the price of eggs yesterday advanced. New-laid hen eggs brought from /10½ to /11, and /10 was wanted for consignments from the railway and South Coast. There were no river eggs on the market. New-laid duck eggs were quoted at /11 "straight out." Good supplies of butter were available, and a big business was done in first brands at 151/4 per cwt., delivered in boxes.

Mr. A. S. McKenzie, general secretary of the Primary Producers' Union, stated that he had again written to the Minister in charge of price fixing (Mr. Massy Greene) in connection with the protest lodged in opposition to the reduction in prices. Mr. McKenzie informed the Minister that he was in receipt of a letter from a representative dairyman in the Casino district, stating that the last four months cost him £70 for bran, chaff and seed, and £35 for rent, making a total expenditure of £105. Against that he received cheques for £81, leaving him £24 in debt as the result of his operations. To that loss must be added household expenses and interest on capital. In view of the climatic conditions and low production for this period of the year, Mr. McKenzie urged the Minister to reconsider his previous decision in connection with the reduction of prices.

HOMEBUSH STOCK SALES.

SHEEP.

MARKET LOWER.

There was a penning at Homebush yesterday of 32,285 sheep and lambs, from 151 owners, scattered throughout the State. The quality of the offering was good, and all classes were to be found in the pens. There were several drafts each of 1000 and over. Crossbreds preponderated, but there was also a big supply of merinos. The majority of the sheep comprised good trade lots, and those on the plain side, but the pens also contained quite a number of prime heavy sheep, both shorn and in the fleece. As the export buyers were operating, these were in good demand. There was the usual attendance of butchers, store buyers, and other branches of the trade from the metropolis and the mountain and coastal districts. The market right from the opening showed a fall of from 1/ to 1/6, and in places to 2/ in values. The fall was less pronounced in heavy sheep, and this was due, no doubt, to the export buyers operating. The market did not improve, and continued to drag right to the close. Maiden Bros. secured the top prices of the day for a line of 310 merino wethers they sold for G. D. Davidson, of Stockinbingal, which made to 50/1, and averaged 47/10; while a line of cross-wethers from H. Cleverdon, of Harden, they sold to 60/1.

LAMBS.

There was a big supply of lambs, including many suckers, for which competition was weak. A pen of cross-suckers from P. Mylecharane, of Grenfell, sold to 30/. Cross-suckers from J. L. Boyd, of Geraldene, realised to 25/11, and cross-lambs from the same owner sold to 32/3, and cross-suckers from W. Butler, of Wyalong, made to 25/.

CATTLE.

A FALL IN VALUES.

There was a yarding of 2086 cattle, from 67 owners. The consignment notes showed that the majority of the cattle were from this State, but several hundred came from Queensland. The quality of the offering was excellent. There was a fairly big representation of first-class beef, while medium trade sorts were in abundance. There were three consignments of over 100 head in each, and one draft of 270, but the majority of the owners forwarded from 10 to 60 head each. There was a good attendance of buyers, all sections of the trade being fully represented. The market opened in buyers' favour, and sales were not long in operation before prices fell, and the market showed a decline of from 20/ to 40/ per head. The position did not improve, and the close of the market proved very dull, some of the cattle being hard to sell. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin handled the best lines of bullocks yarded. They sold 35 bullocks from W. J. Weir, of Narrandera. These made to £30/5/, and avg. £23/11/1. They sold 102 bullocks and steers from E. Carter, of Queensland, to £24/16/, with an average of £20. They sold 97 bullocks and steers from E. Jones, of Queensland, to £25/2/, with an average of £20. They sold 59 bullocks and steers from G. J. Symonds, of Queensland, to £27/10/, with an average of £20/13/6. They sold 50 bullocks and steers from A. G. F. Munro, of Moree, to £24/16/, with an average of £20/11/2. The highest price for cows was secured by Wilkinson and Lavender, who sold 10 cows for the Belalie Pastoral Company, of Bourke, which realised £24/5/, and averaged £19/11/2. But the largest single line of cattle of the day was handled by Pitt, Son, and Badgery, who sold for C. H. J. Schmidt, of Queensland, 270 bullocks, which made to £23/17/, and had the splendid average of £22/3/4.

Among the principal sales were the following:—From F. E. Sides, of Narrandera, 49 blks. to £23/12/, avg. £22/14/10; from C. H. J. Schmidt (Q.), 270 blks. to £23/17/, avg. £22/3/4; from M. J. "Surely," writes Mr. R. T. Haggn, of Strathfield, "it is time the Railway Commissioners either eliminated the level crossing at the Lidcombe station or made some arrangements whereby vehicular traffic could be enabled to cross the line within reasonable limits."

MINING.

A further slump in prices for the chief silver-lead and tin stocks occurred on the Stock Exchange yesterday, and the movement synchronised with the report and denial of the abdication of the German Emperor. The bulk of the turnover was evenly divided between Barriers and tin concerns. Among the former "Hills" fell 1/9 to 58/6, but recovered to 59/ before closing time; and British, after some fluctuation, finished 1/3 lower at 41/6. North B.H. fell to 58/, and Junction Norths and Junctions came back a few pence to 11/3 and 7/ respectively.

Tin issues fared no better. Tongkah Harbour reacted /6 to 60/6, and Tongkah Compound fell a similar amount to 14/. Kampong receded /9 to 53/3, and Trong and Tin Bentong figured at easier terms. Carpathia was lower among the local propositions, and Vegetable Creek sagged to 11/3. Gold and copper propositions attracted only a handful of business at steady rates.

NOTES.

The Pioneer Tin-mining Company's clean up for the six weeks ended October 12 returned an estimated yield of 57 tons of stream tin.

During last week the North Broken Hill, Ltd., plant treated 2800 tons of crude ore, assaying 15.1 per cent. lead, 9.0oz silver, 12.7 per cent. zinc, producing 530 tons concentrates, assaying 65.5 per cent. lead, 27.6oz silver, and 7.1 per cent. zinc.

The King Island Scheelite Company's mill ran 138 hours, crushing 443 tons of ore, assaying .96 per cent. tungstic acid, which yielded 5 tons of concentrates, assaying 69.8 per cent. tungstic acid.

During the month of September the Zinc Corporation's lead concentrator ran 359 hours, treating 8295 tons of ore, for a production of 1892 tons of leady concentrates, assaying 64.8 per cent. lead, 10.1oz silver, and 7 per cent. zinc. The zinc concentrator ran 373 hours, treating 16,690 tons of tailings, for a production of 4285 tons of zinc concentrates, assaying 47.3 per cent. zinc, 10.1oz silver, and 7.2 per cent. lead, and 322 tons of lead concentrates, assaying 14.2 per cent. zinc, 29oz silver, and 58 per cent. lead.

The Kampong Kamunting dredges ran 647 hours during the first half of October, and treated 86,000 cubic yards for a return of 35 tons of tin oxide, which realised £5760.

The Bodangora Gold-mining Company crushed 500 tons for a yield, including concentrates, to the value of £455.

The C.S.A. furnace was in blast for 168 hours during the week ended October 16, and smelted 1296 tons of ore, producing 200 tons of shipping matte, which contained 42 tons of copper.

Mailed details of operations of the Kampong Kamunting dredges during the month of August show that the dredges ran 1176 hours, and turned over 164,500 cubic yards, for a recovery of 71.07 tons of tin oxide. This product, when sold, realised £13,103, and the working cost, exclusive of depreciation and Sydney office expenses, amounted to £3102, or 4.53 pence per cubic yard. The very high prices of all stores, fuel, and spares were chiefly responsible for the high working costs, and it is hardly possible to appreciably reduce these before the return to normal times.

The following is a summary of the month's work:—

Dredge No.	Hours run.	Cub. yds. treated.	Tin Oxide recovered Tons.	Value in lbs. per cubic yd. By boring.	Value in lbs. per cubic yd. Recvd.

VICTORIAN TRAINING NOTES.

CAULFIELD.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The weather became very cold this morning, when the wind changed at half-past 6, and a driving rain came with it. The sand track was in use, and it was in good order. Earl Locin was let off with an easy task, and Collert finished up some strong work with four furlongs in 48 sec. Lisnavane went with great dash, and beat St. Mira over four furlongs in the smart time of 50 sec; and Coormina went equally as well for a furlong less in 37½ sec. Ashview showed pace by running seven furlongs in 1 min 30¾ sec; and Seigneur was 2 min 18½ sec running a mile and a quarter. Sad Lad (Amson) jumped three hurdles fairly well, and then went on for nine furlongs in 2 min 6 sec. Cullulleraine did stout exercise; Aislabie put past six furlongs in 1 min 21½ sec, and Martino was half a second better. First Trim galloped a mile in 1 min 54 sec; Pistolaire was let off with an even time mile, and After Glow and Fadelma went over six furlongs in 1 min 20 sec. Woltupa was 1 min 53 sec running a mile; and Chal and Kilbarron ran the last six furlongs of that distance in 1 min 10¾ sec.

FLEMINGTON.

Excepting for a shower before the work was concluded, the conditions were favourable yesterday morning, but there was only a small assemblage of visitors, and not very much to interest. The new arrivals down for easy work included Princess Clara, Princess Lucy, and Kennaquhair; and others now in residence are Desert Gold, Estland, Finmark, Killowen, Montrose, and Donafia. King Offa (F. Bullock) moved in his customary smooth manner for nine furlongs on the outside of the course in 2m 7s. Prince Royal, who is a strong goer, strode along on the tan, his last half mile occupying 58s. Democracy and Daius, who seemed none the worse for their races on the previous day, did easy work; and Uska (a light weight) went nicely in a gallop over a mile in 1m 47½s, the last six furlongs occupying 1m 21s. Half-mile sports were done by Cerago (R. Horne), 50¾s; Fitness, on the tan, 51s; Purple Star and Beau Bernard, 52½s; Happy King and Swordstroke, 51½s; Lystrim (F. Bullock), going better than Duntrim, 51s; and Stratus ran five furlongs in 1m 8½s. Prince Bardolph had no difficulty in running a mile in 1m 51s, and Lord Cooltrim ran six furlongs in 1m 20s. King Kora did a mile in 1m 24s, and Dueler was 1m 22s for the same distance on the tan, where Edrington covered a mile in 1m 52½s, and Coronatus was 1m 58s. Bill Taft (H. Eames) did well in a schooling over hurdles with R.D.T. (J. Watts); Leon did good strong work on the tan, his last five furlongs taking 1m 9s. Sir Carl and Iolaus were extended for a mile in 1m 53½s, and Last Sheaf and Jack Crusoe were 2m 23½s going a mile and a quarter. Carriole went half a mile on the tan in 55½s; Lady Desirous did a furlong less in 39½s on the course, where Marple was going along easily for nine furlongs in 2m 10s.

THE TANK IN ACTION.

The tank which for several weeks past has been on view in various parts of the city is to perform its "stunts" under realistic conditions for the purpose of raising funds equally for Jack's Day and Dependents' Day. The Motor Traders' Association is organising a tank week, and has appointed a tank demonstration committee, with Mr. Alick M'Neil (Garratts, Ltd.) as chairman, for the purpose of completing arrangements. The Lord Mayor (Alderman J. Joynton Smith) has given the use of the Victoria Park Racecourse for the purpose. The manoeuvres will comprise those actually conducted on the field. The tank week will be opened by the Governor on Thursday, October 24, and will continue until November 2.

STATION PRODUCE SALES.

The Sydney Wool Selling Brokers' Association reports:—

Tallow.—At yesterday's auctions 321 casks were catalogued, as against 257 casks at the last sales. A weaker market was met with, and in order to do business a reduction of from 20/ to 25/ per ton on best sorts, and 10/ to 15/ per ton on medium to good descriptions, had to be submitted to. Prime butchers' mixed £40/15/ to £41 per ton, good £40/5/ to £40/10/, medium £39/15/ to £40, inferior £38/10/ to £39/10/, broken packages £33 to £35/10/.

Hair, Bones, and Sundries.—Moderate sized catalogues were submitted to a full attendance of buyers. Horsehair received good support at improved figures, while cowhair ruled firm. Best round and flat shanks, thighs, buttocks, and shins barely maintained late rates, but hoofs and sinews realised rather better prices. Hidepieces met a slack market, and values have a downward tendency. Horsehair to /23 per lb, cowhair to /21½, cow stumps to /6, round shank bones to £15 per ton, flat shank bones to £9, mixed shank bones to £13, thigh bones to £34/5/, clods to £6/10/, buttocks to £25/3/, shin bones to £24/5/, white hoofs to £34/15/, black hoofs to £26, striped hoofs to £27/10/, mixed hoofs to £20, sinews to £54/10/, hide pieces to £30, pizz'es to £24, muzzles to £15, knuckles to £6, scrolls to £10/10/.

Bark.—A brisk private inquiry prevails at the following level of values:—Best to £11 per ton, good £10 to £10/10/, inferior £5/10/ to £7.

W.C.T.U.

POLICE AND ART UNIONS.

The annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was continued in the Belvoir-street Baptist Church, Surry Hills, yesterday. The drawing-room, world missionary, prisons' work, flower mission, and mothers' meetings reports were received, and showed that the organisations and branches had carried on successful work. An address on "The Gambling Spirit of the Age" was delivered by the Rev. Thomas Davies. Mr. Davies said he was sorry to say that permission had been given for an art union to be held in aid of "Jack's Day" by the police and firemen. The headquarters of the whole affair were police headquarters. The whole thing was going to give a tremendous impetus to the gambling spirit of the State. The following resolution, proposed by Miss Bowes and seconded by Mrs. Nolan, was carried unanimously:—"That this conference, having heard that permission has been granted by the Department of Repatriation for the holding of a raffle by the police and firemen of the State in aid of 'Jack's Day,' calls to mind that the Department of Repatriation recently announced that no raffles would be allowed for patriotic purposes, which announcement gave much satisfaction to all those interested in the moral well-being of society. We now regard with very grave concern this departure from the recent announcement. We most respectfully enter our emphatic protest against the illegal raffle being allowed, and more particularly do we protest against the police being allowed to manage and participate in this illegal proceeding. We earnestly call on the authorities of the Repatriation Department to withdraw the consent for the holding of this raffle, and request that no consent be given in the future for anything of this character."

On being shown the resolution passed by the W.C.T.U. last night, the Inspector-General of Police (Mr. J. Mitchell), stated that the efforts of the police and firemen have nothing whatever to do officially with the Police Department. "The matter," he said, "is dealt with entirely by representatives of the two bodies outside of their official positions."

WATER SUPPLY BOARD.

The extensive system whereby Sydney is supplied with water and the sewerage is disposed of is fully described and elaborately illustrated in a beautiful volume, which has been produced in commemoration of the 30th anniversary of the establishment of the board and the completion this year of the new office building in Pitt-street. "In round numbers," it is stated in the foreword, "nearly fifteen million pounds have been spent on the works connected with the water supply and sewerage of Sydney. To the 'man in the street' this announcement will no doubt be received with incredulity and the query 'What has been done with the money?' It is to remove the one and answer the other that the following pages have been prepared." The object so expressed has been admirably accomplished.

DEPENDENTS' DAY.

The total amount now in hand for the Soldiers' Dependents' Day Fund is £33,231/18/1.

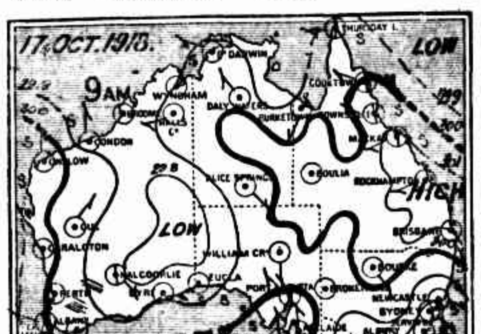
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



The distribution of atmospheric pressure, both on Wednesday and Thursday was one favouring heat and sultriness over a considerable area of Australia. Although the slight tendency to tropical activity resulted in one or two light showers in Queensland, nothing of the nature of a beneficial rainstorm is yet in evidence. The majority of the midday temperatures on Wednesday (associated with warm to hot northerly winds) were either in the eighties or nineties (deg.), and at several 100 deg. was exceeded. Since Wednesday, however, an intense form of Antarctic disturbance has appeared over the south-eastern States, and accentuated the heat conditions. Its presence there is so far mostly associated with strong and squally NW to W winds, and a little cloudiness over the southern districts. But probably during the next 24 hours, the clouds will gather and extend over southern half with some scattered rain and thunderstorms, and a cool squally southerly change (SW to SE) reaching gale force, should spread over the greater part of the State and dispel the sultriness temporarily. A rather important phase in the distribution of pressure is shown over the western half of Australia, where a pronounced tropical loop of low pressure encloses one of lower barometric value (29.8 inches). This is bounded over the Southern Ocean by an area of relatively "high." Such a distribution, if it persists as easting is made, should soon reaching the eastern States, be productive of good rains and thunderstorms of a general character. Its behaviour over South Australia, should therefore be watched closely as thereby an indication would be provided as to its future operations.

Ocean Forecast.—West to SW, strong to gales, around Tasmania, passing to New South Wales coast and Tasman Sea. No data from the NW and NE coast. Elsewhere smooth to moderate.

TRAMWAY EMPLOYEES' GRIEVANCES.

A mass meeting of tramway employees, convened by the executive of the Tramway Union, was held in the I.O.O.F. Temple, Elizabeth-street, yesterday morning for the purpose of discussing grievances referring to the alleged breaches of awards, overcrowding of cars, insufficient wages, and superannuation funds.

A motion was carried demanding the appointment of a competent tribunal to inquire into the working of the tramways and the cause of unrest in the service.

LOSS OF THE WIMMERA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have read in this morning's "Herald" about the finding of the Court in regard to the loss of the ill-fated Wimmera, which was mined off the New Zealand coast on June 26 last; and many of us will hold the late Captain Kell in memory for ever. How truly hard he worked to get us all away from the sinking ship, which was out of sight in 20 minutes after we struck. It was through his magnificent work that so few lives (29 in all) were lost and so many of the small children on board were saved. Captain Kell and the second officer (Mr. Wilson) saved my six children, and there is not a more grateful woman living than I am to-day. If ever there was a true British sailor Captain Kell was one, and every right-minded passenger will say the same. We all owe our lives to his energy and self-sacrifice, and we honour his memory.

In the appeal in your paper for Jack's Day it says, "Who will not give something for the men who give the Empire such unwearied service, so silently and so splendidly?" How many people will read this beautiful appeal, and there it will end. Especially will this be true of those here who do not know the meaning of the word "war," and who have given neither kith nor kin. But those who have had such an experience as ours, and have seen "Jack" as he really is, will know Jack's sterling worth. I am, etc.,

MEDICAL, CHEMICALS, ETC.

LET ME SAVE YOUR TEETH.

I wish I could have a heart-to-heart talk with every man or woman who contemplates having a tooth out: —DON'T! if it can be saved. If it must come out, let me painlessly extract it and replace it. I am not so good a dentist as Nature, but I guarantee that you cannot get better or cheaper dental service elsewhere. I learned many new methods while on active service, which give me a tremendous advantage in my practice; and if you will consult me I can quickly convince you as to why I can give you superior dental service, combining the very latest features in modern painless dental surgery.

LET ME MAKE YOUR PLATES.

I claim that no plate work excels mine, but I advise plates only when better results cannot be accomplished with my exceptional crown, bridge, and pivot tooth work, or when the teeth, through neglect, are too far gone to be saved by either gold, amalgam, or my increasing popular invisible fillings.

ALL OPERATIONS PAINLESS.

CONSULTATION FREE.

When you consult me you can absolutely depend upon getting honest, candid advice. I give a five years' guarantee certificate covering all fillings, crown, bridge, or plate work, and guarantee that all operations are painlessly executed. LOW FEES.

Open Wed. and Friday evening, and Saturday afternoon.

DENTIST W. E. HART (LATE A.I.F.),

FOR A SQUARE DEAL,

BOOMERANG HOUSE, 139 KING-STREET.

A TRIUMPH OF DENTAL SURGERY. That's what scores of patients say who have had teeth filled by my wonderful painless method. It is a triumph of science indeed to think that those sensitive teeth of yours can be drilled and filled without causing you the slightest pain. Yet it is being done every day by me. I have an apparatus which makes possible—ABSOLUTELY PAINLESS FILLINGS. The surest proof of its success is to ask any of my patients, and I invite you to do this. You gain in two ways by allowing me to fill your teeth by this method. You are relieved from every bit of pain, and I can do the work better, because you are able to sit quietly at ease. There are no harmful effects—my system is perfectly safe for all ages. REALLY PAINLESS EXTRACTIONS. £5 GIVEN IF YOU FEEL EVEN A TWINGE. So positive am I that I can extract teeth really without pain that I make an open offer of £5 should you feel a single twinge even with a really bad tooth. Here, again, I have an exclusive method, perfected during my nineteen years of dental practice. See me to-day, and get the benefit of the most up-to-date dental methods in Sydney. My prices are strictly reasonable, and terms may be arranged. Consultations free. Open till 6 p.m. daily (Sats. included). Until 9 p.m., Fridays. Half-holiday Wednesday. DENTIST PHILLIP MOSES, Orchard's Corner, George-street, opp. Railway.

Basham, Batlow, N.S.W., writes us, 9/9/'18:—"Received your Remedies last Friday week, and at the time was in a very bad state, but have much pleasure in being able to inform you that your Remedies have done wonders. The Anti-pain Balm caused the pain to disappear almost instantly. This week I have been following on my usual work, 'a new man as it were,' whereas the week before I was almost a cripple. Thanking you for the great benefit received."

TO MAKE GOOD FAMILY COUGH MIXTURE AND SAVE MUCH MONEY.

Obtain from your Chemist or store a bottle of HEENZO (registered name for Hean's Essence), and add it to a large breakfastcupful of warm water sweetened with treacle or honey and sugar as per easy directions printed on the label, and you will at once have a family supply of superior quality cough and sore-throat mixture. A like quantity of ordinary mixture, purchased in a lot of little bottles, would cost from 12/ to £1, according to quality. HEENZO costs only 2/. Thus each bottle used shows a big cash saving. No boiling or fussing is needed, the mixing being a matter of but a few moments. If you experience any difficulty in obtaining HEENZO in your locality, send 2/, plus 3d for postage, and a bottle will be sent to you per return mail by G. W. Hean, Manufacturing Chemist, 178 Castlereagh-street, Sydney. If you prefer a lozenge to a liquid remedy, ask for HEENZO Cough Diamonds, price 1/ per tin.

WRINKLES.
Wrinkles in general may depend upon an unnatural use of the muscles, but also upon a lack of their use, with the result that the muscles become flabby, sinking below their natural level, and allowing the skin to fall with them, thus causing hollows, furrows, and folds.
It is well known that exercise strengthens faculty, but care must be taken not to over-exert a muscle or a group of muscles. A muscle is built up by gentle, systematic massage, but can be rendered entirely useless by rough, unnatural manipulation. If you call I will demonstrate to you the right and the wrong methods.
